

MSt in Comparative Literature and Critical Translation

Course handbook 2022-23

Contents

1. Foreword	3
1.1 Statement of Coverage	3
1.2 Version	3
1.3 Disclaimer	3
1.4 Welcome/Introduction	3
1.5 Useful contacts	4
1.6 Governance and Oversight of the Course	5
1.7 Key Places	5
1.8 Important Dates	5
2. Course Content and Structure	8
2.1 Course Aims	8
2.2 Intended Learning Outcomes	8
2.3 Course Structure	9
2.4 Optional Additional Language Course	11
3. Teaching and Learning	12
3.1 Organisation of Teaching and Learning	12
3.2 Roles/responsibilities of course team	15
3.3 Expectations of Study	15
4. Assessment	17
4.1 Formative Assessment	17
4.2 Summative Assessment	17
4.3 Good Academic Practice and Avoiding Plagiarism	19
4.4 Entering for University examinations	19
4.5 Submitted work	19
4.6 Problems completeting assessments	20
4.7 Examiner's Reports	20
5. Skills and learning development	21
5.1 Academic Progress	21
5.2 Opportunities for skills training and development and to engage in the Humanities Division's research community	21
5.3 Opportunities to engage in the research community	23
5.4 Employability and careers information	23
6. Student Representation, Evaluation and Feedback	24
6.1 Student Representation	24

6.2	Divison and University Representation	24
6.3	Opportunities to provide evaluation and feedback	24
7.	Student Life and Support	25
7.1	Who to Contact for Help	25
7.2	Complaints and Appeals	25
7.3	Student Societies	26
7.4	Policies and Regulations	27
8.	Facilities	28
8.1	Social Spaces and Facilities	28
8.2	Workspace	28
8.3	Libraries and Museums	28
8.4	IT and Email	28
8.5	Canvas Virtual Learning Environment	29
8.6	Registration and Student Self-Service	29
	Appendix A – The Core Course: Reading and Preparation	30
	Appendix B - General Background Reading and Reference Texts	49
	Appendix D - Plagiarism	59
	Appendix E - Guidelines for the Presentation of Written Work	62

1. Foreword

1.1 Statement of Coverage

This handbook is designed as a guide for postgraduate students undertaking the Master of Studies in Comparative Literature and Critical Translation. It applies to students starting the course in Michaelmas term 2022. The information in this handbook may be different for students starting in other years.

1.2 Version

This is version 1 of the Handbook for the MSt Comparative Literature and Critical Translation, published on 21 September 2022.

1.3 Disclaimer

The Examination Regulations relating to this course are available at <https://examregs.admin.ox.ac.uk/Regulation?code=mosiclandcrittran&srchYear=2022&srchTerm=1&year=2022&term=1>

If there is a conflict between information in this handbook and the Examination Regulations then you should follow the Examination Regulations. If you have any concerns please contact the Graduate Studies Administrator interdisciplinary@humanities.ox.ac.uk

The information in this handbook is accurate as at September 2022, however it may be necessary for changes to be made in certain circumstances, as explained at www.graduate.ox.ac.uk/coursechanges. If such changes are made the division will publish a new version of this handbook together with a list of the changes, and students will be informed.

1.4 Welcome/Introduction

A warm welcome to Oxford, and to the Master of Studies in Comparative Literature and Critical Translation. The course is organised by the Humanities Division of the University, with the collaboration of the Faculties of Asian and Middle Eastern Studies, Medieval and Modern Languages, and English Language and Literature; and it is attached to the interdisciplinary Oxford Comparative Criticism and Translation Research Centre (OCCT). The course will introduce you to current theoretical debates and give you the methodological tools you need to work confidently across two or more languages and literatures; it will also enable you to engage in focused study within a wide range of possible areas. With its combination of conceptual innovation, cultural breadth, historical depth and scholarly rigour, it is, we believe, one of the best masters courses in the fields of comparative literature and translation studies anywhere in the world.

Oxford is an extraordinarily stimulating place in which to study. It has great libraries and museums, with rich research collections. There is an excellent music and arts scene, and beautiful buildings and surrounding countryside. Above all, you will be joining a community of thinkers and scholars who will provide you with countless opportunities to learn. Don't hesitate to throw yourself into all this and make the most of it.

The transition from undergraduate to postgraduate life, and perhaps also to a new university, can sometimes be stressful. Do please let us know at once if you are encountering difficulties: contact details are in Section 1 of this handbook, and information about other sources of help and support follows in Section 6. Do please also let us know of anything that might be improved: the course structure offers many opportunities for feedback, appraisal and discussion. Everyone involved in the course is looking forward to joining with you in the collaborative process of teaching and learning.

Professor Matthew Reynolds

Convenor of the MSt in Comparative Literature and Critical Translation

1.5 Useful contacts

Course Contacts

If you have any queries, one of the following people should be able to help:

Karina Beck - Course Administrator

Email: interdisciplinary@humanities.ox.ac.uk

Phone: 01865 615264

Prof Matthew Reynolds – Course Convenor

Email: matthew.reynolds@ell.ox.ac.uk

Prof Ben Morgan – Co-convenor

Email: ben.morgan@mod-langs.ox.ac.uk

Prof Mohamed-Salah Omri – Co-convenor

Email: mohamed-salah.omri@orinst.ox.ac.uk

Prof Adriana X. Jacobs – Co-convenor

Email: adriana.jacobs@orinst.ox.ac.uk

Erin Nickalls – Academic Mentor

Email: erin.nickalls@st-annes.ox.ac.uk

Any member of the course team may be contacted by email to arrange a meeting. Your course convenor and academic mentor are also available at specific times each week for discussion, please see the timetable for more details.

Other contacts

You may also find the following contacts helpful:

IT Services

Online enquires: <https://help.it.ox.ac.uk/help/request>

Phone: 01865 (6)12345

Library

Online enquiries: <https://www.bodleian.ox.ac.uk/ask>

Disability Advisory Service

Email: disability@admin.ox.ac.uk

Please see section 7 for further information on who to contact for support.

1.6 Governance and Oversight of the Course

The MSt in Comparative Literature and Critical Translation is overseen by a Steering Committee which consists of the Course Convenors, one other senior academic, the Academic Mentor, and two student representatives. The Steering Committee meets once each term.

1.7 Key Places

Teaching for your courses may take place in any of the participating Faculties, or in any College.

A searchable map of Oxford University locations is available here:

<https://www.ox.ac.uk/visitors/map?wssl=1>

We anticipate your core lectures and seminars will primarily take place in the following venues. Please click on the links for location and access information:

Interdisciplinary Masters' Room, Tim Gardam Building, St Anne's College

<https://maps.ox.ac.uk/embed.html#/places/oxpoints:23232425>

This room also serves as common-room and study space when it is not being used for interdisciplinary MSt teaching.

Tsuzuki Lecture Theatre, Ruth Deech Building, St Anne's College

<https://maps.ox.ac.uk/embed.html#/places/oxpoints:53003531>

Radcliffe Humanities

<https://maps.ox.ac.uk/embed.html#/places/oxpoints:55095840>

The Faculties participating in the course are:

Faculty of Asian and Middle Eastern Studies: <https://www.orinst.ox.ac.uk/>

Faculty of English Language and Literature: <https://www.english.ox.ac.uk/>

Faculty of Medieval and Modern Languages: <https://www.mod-langs.ox.ac.uk/>

1.8 Important Dates

Dates of Full Term

The dates of Full Term in the academic year 2022-23 are as follows:

Term	From	To
Michaelmas 2022	Sunday 9 October	Saturday 3 December
Hilary 2023	Sunday 15 January	Saturday 11 March
Trinity 2023	Sunday 23 April	Saturday 17 June

Where there is reference to '1st week', '6th week', etc., this applies to the weeks of Full Term, during which classes run. '9th week', '10th week', etc. are the weeks immediately after Full Term. The week immediately before Full Term is commonly known as '0th week'. By convention, Oxford weeks begin on a Sunday.

Teaching dates

Details of your core seminars and lectures are detailed in this handbook (see Teaching and Learning, section 3).

Dates and times for your option course classes should be communicated to you by your host faculty or option tutor; these may have to be discussed and agreed with your option tutors and fellow students at the beginning of term to avoid clashes with core teaching.

Summative Assessment Deadlines

Your summative assessments will be due as follows. The submission times and dates must be strictly adhered to; please see Assessment (section 4), and the Exam Conventions for more details.

Assignment	Date	Time
Core Course Essay	Thursday of Week 8, Hilary Term  (Take Home Examination Paper will be released Thursday of Week 6, Hilary Term)	12 noon
Dissertation	Monday of Week 8, Trinity Term	12 noon
MT/HT Option Assessments	The deadlines for submission of examined work will fall after the end of the term in which the teaching was done. They are likely to be either in 10 th week, or in 0 th week of the following term depending on the nature of the assignment. Please refer to your host faculty for submission deadlines and examination regulations.

Formative Assessment Deadlines

Your formative/draft essays will be due as follows:

Assignment	Date	Time
Core Course Practice Essay	Monday of Week 0, Hilary Term	12 noon

Other important deadlines

Please also note the following important dates. Unless otherwise indicated, the required information should be sent to the course administrator.

Action required	Date
Submit Dissertation Outline (200 words max)	Friday of Week 6, Hilary Term

2. Course Content and Structure

The Master of Studies in Comparative Literature and Critical Translation is a 9-month course at FHEQ Level 7.

2.1 Course Aims

- to provide a course of the highest academic quality in Comparative Literature and Critical Translation in a supportive and challenging learning environment that attracts the very best students globally;
- to enable students to develop a thorough understanding of the methodologies of comparative literature and critical translation studies, and the capacity to put them into practice;
- to provide students with advanced knowledge of one or more topics within the fields of comparative literature and critical translation, and the means to deploy that knowledge effectively;
- to develop independent thinking and the ability to pursue original research across two or more languages and disciplines;
- to develop skills in written and oral communication, and in the presentation of academic work, including sustained argument, independent thought and lucid structure and content; to bring students, on graduation, to a position that enables them to embark successfully on a research degree at a globally leading university or a variety of other careers.

2.2 Intended Learning Outcomes

Knowledge, understanding and academic skills

On completion of the course, students will be able to:

- build well-informed arguments about the theories and methodologies of comparative literature and critical translation studies;
- deploy specialist understanding of one or more topics within the fields of comparative literature and critical translation, and engage in reasoned debate about it;
- conduct theoretically-grounded and historically-contextualised research across languages and disciplines;
- draw constructively on approaches and material from different languages and disciplines.

Transferable skills

On completion of the course, students will be able to:

- find information, organise and deploy it, including through the use of libraries and information technology;
- use such information critically and analytically;
- consider and solve complex problems;
- work well independently and in co-operation with others;

- effectively structure and communicate their ideas in a variety of written and oral formats.

2.3 Course Structure

The MSt in Comparative Literature and Critical Translation comprises three compulsory elements:

- A. The Core Course taken in Michaelmas and Hilary Terms.
- B. Two Option Courses: one taken in Michaelmas Term, one in Hilary Term.
- C. A Dissertation: planning starts during Michaelmas Term; some research is done during Hilary Term; the majority of the work is done in Trinity Term.

A. Core Course: Practice and Theories

The core course will consist of one lecture (1 hour) and one seminar (2 hours) each week during Michaelmas Term weeks 1-6 and Hilary Term weeks 1-6.

This course is taught by the Convenor and Co-convenors, along with other specialists as appropriate.

This course aims to introduce you to key topics and issues in comparative literature and critical translation, and give you the skills needed to develop your own arguments and pursue your own research. These aims are embodied in the structure of the teaching.

The lectures will present key topics and offer arguments about them, and are open to anyone in the university. Each week one of the convenors will explore a set of materials and questions, and suggest ways of thinking about them. You will need to do preparatory reading before each lecture so as to be able to listen actively and begin to develop ideas to pursue in the associated seminar.

The seminars, which are restricted to students taking the MSt Comparative Literature and Critical Translation, will be led by the week's lecturer, together with the graduate teaching assistant, and will include close textual work, training in relevant research skills, and the opportunity to develop and critique the ideas and materials presented in the lectures. They will enable you to bring your own arguments to the table and explore them via discussion. For each seminar, there will therefore be more reading for you to do, together with prescribed research tasks to fulfil: you can expect to give a short presentation at two seminars each term.

Formative assessment is built into the structure of the course. You will receive feedback on your seminar presentations both orally and via a feedback sheet which will give comments on structure, clarity, content and relevance. At the end of Michaelmas Term, you will write an essay relating to one of the topics covered in the course: guidance on this will be given by the Course Convenor; the essay will be due in at the start of Hilary Term, and feedback will be given to you in a one-to-one meeting in the first two weeks of that term.

Summative assessment takes the form of a 4,000-word essay to be written in response to one of a choice of questions in a take-home examination paper at the end of Hilary Term.

Linked from the Canvas site, and in Appendix A of this handbook, you will find a summary of the core course, together with reading lists for each week, and instructions about how to prepare for the seminars. 'Focus Texts' will be central to each week's lecture and you should make sure to study them so as to be able to engage with the arguments presented. The 'Optional Further Reading' is – as the title suggests – optional: this section of the list contains texts that may help you develop your ideas, so browse them according to your interests.

All this material is also available in Oxford Reading Lists Online \(ORLO\) (<https://oxford.rl.talis.com/index.html>), under the title CLCT_MSt Comparative Literature_Core Course. Information about using this resource is here: <https://libguides.bodleian.ox.ac.uk/home/basics>. A list of further general reading and reference texts can be found in Appendix A below.

Please give particular attention to the instructions for the seminars as they vary from week to week.

B. Option Courses

You will take one option course in Michaelmas Term and one option course in Hilary Term. The list of options from which you can choose is provided in Appendix C.

Your options must focus on literature in different languages (eg Arabic in Michaelmas Term, English in Hilary Term) but they may be from the same Faculty (eg Hebrew in Michaelmas and Japanese in Hilary, or Russian in Michaelmas and French in Hilary). Most option courses have a language requirement at the same level as the requirement for your main languages for entry at the MSt Comparative Literature and Critical Translation, ie at least level B2 in the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages, or equivalent. So most students are likely to take options in their main languages; but you can also take options in other languages if you know them well enough. Some options may not have a language requirement, or may span more than one language: in such cases, the Course Convenor will give you advice to make sure that your choices cover a range that is appropriate to the aims of the MSt Comparative Literature and Critical Translation.

Please note that you are not guaranteed to get a place on your preferred options: some options may be over-subscribed, others may not run because of insufficient numbers. In such circumstances the course convenor will make every effort to ensure that you are able to take options that are appropriate to your interests.

The options are taught and examined within the three Faculties that participate in the MSt Comparative Literature and Critical Translation: Asian and Middle Eastern Studies, Modern and Medieval Languages, and English Language and Literature. Accordingly, the modes of teaching and assessment will vary somewhat to suit the material being explored and the number of students taking each option: teaching may happen in small seminars or in tutorials; meetings may be weekly or fortnightly; assessment may be by a single long essay or two shorter essays. Your experience of these different modes of work will form part of the interdisciplinary learning that the MSt Comparative Literature and Critical Translation provides: comparative literature involves thinking, not only about different literatures, but about the varying institutional structures within which those literatures are defined and studied; skill in translation includes being able to translate between different disciplinary norms.

Nonetheless, there will be these commonalities across all the options: teaching will involve regular contact with a tutor and formative assessment of at least one piece of written work; summative assessment for all option courses will consist of writing to be handed in after the completion of the teaching, by a deadline that will fall either during the vacation or in 0th week of the following term.

C. A Dissertation

Your dissertation (10,000-12,000 words) enables you to create your own research agenda and work on it under the guidance of a specialist, deploying the methodological sophistication and practical academic skills that are developed in the other elements of the course. You will be assigned a dissertation supervisor, as outlined in section 3. The dissertation must be on a topic in comparative literature and/or literary translation studies, and it must involve two or more languages. You should discuss possible areas for your dissertation with the Course Convenor early in Michaelmas Term, and agree a topic by mid-way through that term. You will normally then have an initial meeting with your dissertation supervisor at the end of Michaelmas Term.

Early in Hilary Term, the Course Convenor will lead a workshop on expectations and methods relating to the dissertation; and you may have a further meeting with your supervisor in Hilary Term if it suits the progress of your research. The majority of the work and supervision will then take place during Trinity Term.

You will present work-in-progress in the form of a paper at a seminar day organised by the Academic Mentor in 3rd week of Trinity Term, where you will receive feedback from other Masters students and doctoral students involved in OCCT as well as from the Course Convenors. The dissertation will be due in at noon on Monday of 8th week of Trinity Term.

Please note that it is your responsibility to attend supervisions and take advantage of the support they provide, and also to bear in mind your supervisor's workload when considering a termly schedule: supervisors will generally not be able to hold meetings at short notice. A supervision will typically involve discussion of draft written work. You are advised that you should be able to discuss some draft written work by the beginning of Trinity Term at the latest. Delaying this process will leave little time to make revisions in response to feedback, and it may well have a detrimental effect on results.

2.4 Optional Additional Language Course

If you wish, you can learn, or improve your knowledge of, an additional language at the Oxford University Language Centre. This provision does not form part of the assessed learning for the MSt Comparative Literature and Critical Translation. Your additional language must be different from the two main languages on which you are focusing for the MSt. You will be asked if you wish to sign up for an additional language course at the Language Centre Induction in 0th week MT. Teaching will generally take the form of weekly classes.

3. Teaching and Learning

3.1 Organisation of Teaching and Learning

This section of the handbook aims to clarify how teaching and learning will take place on the MSt in Comparative Literature and Critical Translation.

If you have any issues with teaching or supervision please raise them with the course convenors, or with the administrators, as soon as possible so that they can be addressed promptly. If you remain dissatisfied, details of who to contact are provided in section 7 on complaints and appeals.

As an interdisciplinary programme, the degree is administered by the Humanities Division, which is responsible for the organisation and delivery of the course. The teaching is delivered by academic staff who are based in faculties or departments. The course is managed by the MSt in Comparative Literature and Critical Translation Steering Committee.

The role of colleges is primarily supportive. You will be allocated a college advisor who will provide a focal point for your relationship with the college, and general academic or pastoral advice and assistance throughout your course of study.

One of the course convenors will usually be your general supervisor. They will provide you with regular information as to your progress and, where problems arise, provide guidance and assistance as to necessary corrective action.

You will be allocated a dissertation supervisor who may be the same person as the general supervisor, or another person. They will support you in the writing of your dissertation through a pattern of regular meetings and ensure that you work to a planned framework with clearly agreed stages.

The academic mentor supports the work of the programme convenors/ director by fostering a group identity the students on the course, and will contribute to your research mentoring during your studies.

The Graduate Teaching Assistants support the work of the convenors/ director by helping to lead discussion in the seminars which form part of the Core Course in MT and HT.

Induction

At the start of the academic year, in the week before the beginning of formal classes (this is called 0th week), there will be induction sessions to introduce you to the course and to life as a Masters student at Oxford. Here is the timetable:

Session	With	Day	Time	Venue
Introductions and Course Overview	Prof Matthew Reynolds Prof Ben Morgan Prof Mohamed-Salah Omri Prof Adriana X. Jacobs Academic Mentor	Monday, Week 0	9:30am	Interdisciplinary Room, St Anne's College

Session	With	Day	Time	Venue
	Graduate Teaching Assistants
Library	Joanne Ferrari	Monday, Week 0	12pm	Taylorian Library
IT Services	Graham Addis	Monday, Week 0	2pm	Online (Teams)
Careers	Julia Sadler	Monday, Week 0	3pm	Online (Teams)
Language Centre	Marion Sadoux	Monday, Week 0	3.50pm	Language Centre

Michaelmas Term

Teaching	Day	Weeks	Time	Venue
Core Course Lecture	Monday	1-6	11am-12pm	Seminar Room 7, St Anne's College
Core Course Seminar	Wednesday	1-6	10am-12pm	Interdisciplinary Room, St Anne's College
Option Course	As determined by option tutor/host faculty
Language Course (Optional)	As determined by Oxford Language Centre
Formative Assessment	Day	Weeks	Time	Venue
Core Course Formative Essay Paper Released	Wednesday	6	12 noon	Canvas
Other Key Dates/Events
Supervision	Weeks 3 and 6 – Meetings with Prof Reynolds to discuss your progress and plans for your dissertation. Week 7/8 – First meeting with Dissertation Supervisor.

In weeks 7 and 8 there is no core course teaching. This is to create space for you to focus on the examined written work for your option course, to have a meeting with your dissertation supervisor, and to work on a short practice essay relating to the core course.

Throughout the term, you are encouraged to participate in the research culture of the Oxford Comparative Criticism and Translation Research Centre, with its discussion groups, seminars and other events.

The Academic Mentor will be available weekly throughout term for informal advice.

Hilary Term

Teaching	Day	Weeks	Time	Venue
Core Course Lecture	Monday	1-6	11am-12pm	Tsuzuki Lecture Theatre, St Anne's College
Core Course Seminar	Wednesday	1-6	10am-12pm	Interdisciplinary Room, St Anne's College
Option Course	As determined by option tutor/host faculty
Language Course (Optional)	As determined by Oxford Language Centre
Formative Assessment	Day	Weeks	Time	Location
Core Course Formative Essay Deadline	Monday	0	12 noon	Submit to Canvas
Summative Assessment	Day	Weeks	Time	Location
Core Course Essay Examination Paper Released	Thursday	6	12 noon	Inspira/Canvas
Core Course Essay Deadline	Thursday	8	12 noon	Submit to Inspira
Other Key Dates/Events
Supervision	Week 2 – Meeting with Prof Reynolds to receive feedback on your formative Core Course practice essay. Week 4 – Meeting with Prof Reynolds to discuss your progress. You may also wish to arrange further meetings with your dissertation supervisor.
Dissertation Proposal Submission	Friday of Week 6 - 200 word outline to be submitted via link provided by Course Administrator
Dissertation Workshop	Week 3 with Prof Reynolds and Academic Mentor

In 7th and 8th weeks there is again no core course teaching. Just as in Michaelmas Term, this is to create space for you to focus on the examined written work for your option course and core course.

You are encouraged to continue to participate in the research culture of the Oxford Comparative Criticism and Translation Research Centre.

The Academic Mentor will again be available weekly throughout term for informal advice.

Trinity Term

Teaching
Language Course (Optional)	As determined by Oxford Language Centre
Summative Assessment	Day	Weeks	Time	Venue
Dissertation Deadline	Monday	8	12 noon	Submit to Inspira
Other Key Dates/Events
Supervision	Week 4 – Meeting with Prof Reynolds to discuss progress. Dissertation supervision to be arranged between student and supervisor throughout term.
Dissertation Seminar Day	Week 3 – Present work in progress towards your dissertation.

In Trinity term there is no core course, and no options: you will be working intensively on your dissertation, under the guidance of your supervisor.

The Academic Mentor will again be available weekly for informal advice; OCCT's research culture will continue to be active, including especially Oxford Translation Day which will include many events of translational interest.

3.2 Roles/responsibilities of course team

The Convenor and Co-convenors will do all or most of the teaching for the Core Course, drawing in other experts for particular topics as appropriate.

The Academic Mentor will help foster a sense of group identity among students taking the MSt Comparative Literature and Critical Translation, and connect them to the larger community of DPhil students and academics working in comparative literature and translation. They also have responsibility for helping you with matters relating to workload management and professional development. The Mentor will hold meetings about study skills and be available for informal meetings throughout the year. They will also co-ordinate a seminar afternoon in Trinity Term at which Comparative Literature and Critical Translation students will present work in progress towards their dissertations.

The Graduate Teaching Assistants will join in the Core Course Seminars and will help the Academic Mentor in connecting MSt Comparative Literature and Critical Translation students to the wider research community. Normally there will be one Graduate Teaching Assistant in Michaelmas Term and another in Hilary Term.

Tutors for your options will be experts in their fields, from the Faculties of Asian and Middle Eastern Studies, Medieval and Modern Languages, and English Language and Literature.

Your dissertation supervisor will be arranged by the Course Convenor and may be drawn from any one of the participating faculties.

3.3 Expectations of Study

Students are responsible for their own academic progress. You should treat the course as a full-time job. You might therefore expect to work 35-40 hours per week during term. In weeks 1-6 of Michaelmas and Hilary Terms, between about 5 and 7 of these hours will consist of the scheduled teaching for the core course and option, together with your language course if you are taking one. The hours you spend on preparation are likely to vary depending on your interests and on the amount of preparation you might have been able to do in advance. On average, you might expect to spend between about 6 and 10 hours preparing for the core course seminar, and between about 15 and 20 hours working on your option. You might spend 2 hours doing the preparation for your language course, and 2 hours doing some reading towards your dissertation. If you wish, you might also attend the OCCT Discussion Group or a research seminar that interests you. In weeks 7-8 of these terms the pattern will be different but the time commitment will be similar. Here you are likely to be working mainly on the summative assessment for your option course and (in Hilary Term) for the core course. In Trinity Term you will be working wholly on your dissertation. During the Christmas and Easter vacations things are of course more flexible. Of each vacation's six weeks, you might expect to take two weeks' holiday, and to spend the remaining four weeks finishing off assessments and preparing for the following term.

In your preparation and learning, aim to be self-motivated and to pursue your interests. At Oxford, perhaps more than in some other institutions, it is hoped that you will develop your own ideas and share them in seminar discussion, supported by appropriate evidence. In written work, try to develop your own argument, in dialogue with existing views, so that you are bringing something distinctive to the topic being explored. Seminars and tutorials are conceived as a discussion among equals, where everyone – students and tutors – collaborates in sharing thoughts and moving towards intellectual clarity. So do try to participate actively in seminars and tutorials. If this style of learning is new to you, support is available from the Academic Mentor as well as from the Convenors and the Graduate Teaching Assistants. Do please speak to one of us if you have any uncertainties or feel you would like advice. And please let the convenor in charge of teaching (Matthew Reynolds) know at once if you are struggling with the workload or experiencing any other difficulties. Everyone involved in the course is keen to support you to feel happy in your work, to be interested by it, and to make good progress.

4. Assessment

4.1 Formative Assessment

Formative assessment is provided in the following ways:

A. The Core Course: discussion of your ideas in the seminars; oral and written feedback from the seminar leader on each of your presentations; a 1-1 tutorial with the Course Convenor, early in Hilary Term, to discuss the essay you will have written after the end of the Michaelmas term core course teaching.

B. Two Options: discussion of your ideas in tutorials and/or seminars; feedback on at least one piece of written work during the term's teaching, before you embark on your examined essay.

C. The Dissertation: discussion of drafts with your supervisor.

4.2 Summative Assessment

The course is assessed through:

- Dissertation
- Core course essay
- Michaelmas term option essay
- Hilary term option essay

The four assessments have equal weight, however specific marks in each are required to graduate with a given classification; details are in the Examination Conventions (Appendix C, Final Outcome Rules).

Deadlines for submissions are in section 1 above (Summative Assessment Deadlines).

Full details of the procedures for summative assessment are given in the Examination Conventions and Regulations. you should read these carefully before embarking on any examined work.

Examination regulations are the formal register of the structure of the examinations of the course.

The examination regulations are at

<https://examregs.admin.ox.ac.uk/Regulation?code=mosiclandcrittran&srchYear=2022&srchTerm=1&year=2022&term=1>

Examination conventions are the formal record of the specific assessment standards for the course or courses to which they apply. They set out how your examined work will be marked and how the resulting marks will be used to arrive at a final result and classification of your award. They include information on: marking and classification criteria, scaling of marks, progression, resits, use of viva voce examinations, penalties for late submission, and penalties for over-length work.

The examination conventions are in Appendix C and on Canvas:

<https://canvas.ox.ac.uk/courses/176108>

Marks for individual assessments will be released with the publication of the degree outcome. You will receive assessors' feedback on the dissertation at the end of the examination cycle.

The structure and timetable for the examined elements of the course are as follows:

Assessment	Deadline	Time
Core Course Essay	Thursday of Week 8, Hilary Term	12 noon
Dissertation	Monday of Week 8, Trinity Term	12 noon
Option Essays	Please refer to your host faculty for submission deadlines and examination regulations for your option courses.

Core Course Essay

The core course will be assessed by a take-home examination paper. The paper will require you to write an essay, of up to 4,000 words, that answers one of a list of questions relating to topics covered in the course. The paper will be released on Canvas/Inspera at 12 noon on Thursday of Week 6, Hilary Term and a link will be emailed to you by the Course Administrator. The answer will be submitted electronically via Inspera. The word limit of 4,000 words includes footnotes/endnotes but excludes the bibliography and translations of quotations in languages other than English. The formatting and presentation of your answer must follow scholarly norms – see Appendix D: Guidelines for the Presentation of Written Work below.

Option Essays

Each option course is both taught and examined within one of the faculties that participate in the MSt Comparative Literature and Critical Translation: Asian and Middle Eastern Studies, Medieval and Modern Languages, and English Language and Literature. The Examination Conventions that apply to each option are those of its host faculty. The same is true of arrangements for approval of titles (where required), presentation of work, word-length, and deadline. You should ensure that you have familiarised yourself with the appropriate Conventions, which will be available from the graduate studies office of the host faculty.

Dissertation

You must gain informal approval of your dissertation topic by means of discussion with the Course Convenor during Michaelmas term. You must then also secure formal approval by providing an outline of the topic, in not more than 200 words by Friday of Week 6, Hilary Term. A link will be emailed by the Course Administrator for this purpose. You are not obliged to provide a title at this stage, but may do so if you wish. Please note that you may not repeat material in your dissertation that you have already submitted as part of another assessed piece of work.

The dissertation must be between 10,000 and 12,000 words in length: this word limit includes footnotes/endnotes but excludes the bibliography and translations of quotations in languages other than English. The formatting and presentation of your dissertation must follow scholarly norms – see Appendix E: Guidelines for the Presentation of Written Work below. The dissertation must be submitted electronically to Inspira.

4.3 Good Academic Practice and Avoiding Plagiarism

Plagiarism is presenting someone else's work or ideas as your own, with or without their consent, by incorporating it into your work without full acknowledgement. All published and unpublished material, whether in manuscript, printed or electronic form, is covered under this definition. Plagiarism may be intentional or reckless, or unintentional. Under the regulations for examinations, intentional or reckless plagiarism is a disciplinary offence. For further guidance, please see Appendix D below. More information about on plagiarism may be found here: www.ox.ac.uk/students/academic/guidance/skills/plagiarism

Properly referencing your sources in written work can not only help you to avoid breaking the University's plagiarism rules, but can also help you to strengthen the arguments you make in your work. Advice on referencing may be found in Appendix E below. Further general guidance on referencing may be found here: <https://www.ox.ac.uk/students/academic/guidance/skills/referencing>

4.4 Entering for University examinations

The Oxford Students website gives information on the examination entry process and alternative examination arrangements: www.ox.ac.uk/students/academic/exams

4.5 Submitted work

Deadlines for submitting your assessments are above.

All assessments are to be submitted online via Inspira. Ensure you are familiar with the online submission process in advance of any deadline. Full information is provided on the Oxford students website (www.ox.ac.uk/students/academic/exams/submission)

Please note:

- All submitted files must be in PDF format
- The submission time (noon) and date must be strictly adhered to unless you have been given permission by the Proctors (via your college) to submit at a later time and date. Penalties will be imposed by the Board of Examiners for work that is submitted after the deadline.
- Hardware or internet connectivity problems unrelated to the Inspira system will not be accepted as mitigating factors for late submission. Make frequent backups of your work, and give yourself plenty of time to make your submission.
- You will need to use the the course coversheet (provided online) as first page of the work. Remember to put your candidate number, assignment title and word count on the front page of your work. Do not add your name, student number, college or supervisor to any part of the work.

- Take time to check your submission before submitting it online. Make absolutely sure that the file you are submitting is the correct and final version.

4.6 Problems completing assessments

There are a number of University processes in place to help you if you find that illness or other personal circumstances are affecting your assessments or if you experience technical difficulties with an online exam or submission. Full information is available on the Oxford students website (www.ox.ac.uk/students/academic/exams/problems-completing-your-assessment). If you are late in handing work in or believe you will not meet a deadline, you should consult your college senior tutor as a matter of urgency.

4.7 Examiner's Reports

Past examiners' reports can be accessed on the course Canvas site (<https://canvas.ox.ac.uk/courses/176108>). Students are strictly prohibited from contacting external examiners directly. If you are unhappy with an aspect of your assessment you may make a complaint or appeal. Details are on the Student webpages at <https://www.ox.ac.uk/students/academic/complaints>

5. Skills and learning development

5.1 Academic Progress

At the end of each term, the relevant tutors/supervisors will submit a report, on the Graduate Student Reporting system (GSR), about your academic progress.

Within GSR you have the opportunity to contribute to your termly reports by reviewing and commenting on your own progress. You are strongly encouraged to take the opportunity to do this, and to record also any skills training you have undertaken or may need to undertake in the future, and your engagement with the academic community (e.g. seminar and conference attendance).

Students are asked to report in weeks 6 and 7 of term. Once you have completed your sections of the online form, it will be visible to your tutors and to your College Advisor. These GSR reports proved a shared channel for recording and reflecting on your progress, and for identifying areas where further work is required.

Please note that if you have any complaints about the supervision you are receiving, you should raise this immediately with one of the Course Convenors, who have overall responsibility for monitoring and reporting on student progress. Do not wait for the end-of-term supervision reporting process.

If you have any questions or concerns that are not of an academic nature, please email the course administration as and when you need.

5.2 Opportunities for skills training and development and to engage in the Humanities Division's research community

There are a number of services and programmes across the University that provide support in developing yourself both personally and professionally. These opportunities complement the development opportunities provided through your own activities – within and beyond your research - and those provided by your faculty.

Training in IT skills for study and research is available at <http://www.skillstoolkit.ox.ac.uk/>

The Bodleian Library holds workshops on information discovery, referencing, impact, intellectual property, open access and data management:

<http://www.bodleian.ox.ac.uk/using/skills>

Humanities Researcher Development and Training Programme

The Humanities Researcher Development and Training Programme is a comprehensive personal and professional development programme of events, opportunities, workshops and resources to support and develop Humanities researchers at all stages of their career from postgraduate level upwards. Some opportunities are bespoke and developed in-house; others are provided through external partners, student support services or in partnership with faculties. The programme serves all the faculties of the Humanities Division and any researchers working in Humanities-related subject areas.

The aims of the programme are:

- To train our postgraduate students and postdoctoral researchers to become research leaders of the future
- To empower postgraduate students and postdoctoral researchers to become pioneers in a range of careers and professions, within and beyond the sphere of higher education
- To enhance our postgraduate students' and postdoctoral researchers' disruptive voice as active citizens who are confident speaking truth to power, and as ambassadors for the Humanities

Experiential, hands-on learning is fundamental to our approach, with student-led and early career researcher-led initiatives and projects being generated and supported through a range of funds and initiatives such as the AHRC-TORCH Graduate Fund, Student Peer Review College, and the annual Public Engagement with Research Summer School. All of these mechanisms are in turn run (with support from the Researcher Development and Training Manager) by early career researchers themselves.

How to get involved

The Humanities Researcher Development and Training Programme is open to all postgraduate students (Master's and DPhil) and early career researchers (including college appointments and those on teaching-only contracts) in the Humanities Division.<sup>1</sup> An extensive programme of opportunities runs throughout the academic year, arranged into a number of 'pathways':

Business and Entrepreneurship – pitch an idea to the Humanities Innovation Challenge Competition and win £2,000, or find out what history can teach us about entrepreneurship through the Said Business School's series of lectures on 'Engaging with the Humanities'

Career Confidence – explore your options, develop your CV, draft cover letters for roles within or beyond academia, practise fellowship interview techniques, enhance your digital profile or learn how to give a teaching presentation. We work closely with the Careers Service, who offer tailored support for postgraduate and postdoctoral researchers (see below)

Digital Humanities – learn how to encode text, 3D-scan museum objects and write code, or participate in the world-leading Digital Humanities at Oxford Summer School

Heritage – network with industry leaders in the heritage sector, learn how to set up a research collaboration with a heritage organisation, take a tour of a museum under development with a lead curator, or contribute to Trusted Source, the National Trust's research-led online knowledge bank

Public Engagement with Research – create a podcast, practise on-camera interviews, learn the techniques of 'storytelling' when talking about your research, apply for funding to support a public engagement project for your research through the Graduate Fund, or participate in the annual Public Engagement with Research Summer School

---

<sup>1</sup> Postgraduate students in social sciences who are in receipt of AHRC funding are also eligible to participate.

Preparation for Academic Practice – attend workshops on writing journal articles, preparing for the DPhil viva, organising a conference, or using EndNote. Pitch your idea for a monograph to editors from world-leading publishing houses, and prepare a fieldwork application for ethical review.

Creative Industries – participate in workshops led by organisations in the creative industries, develop a research collaboration, or learn about career opportunities in this sector

Teaching – build on the training offered by your faculty (Preparation for Learning and Teaching at Oxford) and gain accreditation to the Staff and Educational Development Association by enrolling in Developing Learning and Teaching seminars. Attend workshops on applying your teaching experience to the job application process, or learn how to teach with objects at the Ashmolean Museum.

All our events and opportunities are free to attend, and a number of workshops, particularly those in the ‘Preparation for Academic Practice’ pathway, are repeated each term. See www.torch.ox.ac.uk/researcher-training for the calendar of upcoming events and for more information about the programme. You can also email the Humanities Researcher Development and Training Manager, Caroline Thurston, at training@humanities.ox.ac.uk if you have any queries.

5.3 Opportunities to engage in the research community

The MSt Comparative Literature and Critical Translation is attached to the Oxford Comparative Criticism and Translation Research Centre (OCCT), and has been developed out of research conducted in that context. You are encouraged to get involved in the research culture of OCCT, including its fortnightly postgraduate-led discussion groups: the Academic Mentor and Graduate Teaching Assistants will help you to do this. Information about OCCT is at www.occt.ox.ac.uk.

The Oxford Research Centre in the Humanities (TORCH) puts on many events that are interesting from a comparative and translational point of view. Information about TORCH is at www.torch.ox.ac.uk.

There are also many research seminars and other events that take place within the participating Faculties. You will be informed about them via the Faculties’ email bulletins; further information will be available on their websites.

5.4 Employability and careers information

Information and advice on careers can be found on the Student website at <https://www.ox.ac.uk/students/life/experience> and the University Careers Service (www.careers.ox.ac.uk).

6. Student Representation, Evaluation and Feedback

6.1 Student Representation

The MSt in Comparative Literature and Critical Translation is run by a Steering Committee, on which members of all faculties involved in the course are represented. The Committee is chaired by the co-directors. Students must provide two representatives to serve on the steering committee. They may be chosen by discussion and agreement, or if necessary by an election: the Academic Mentor will oversee this process.

The representatives will attend the 'Open Business' section of Steering Committee meetings: they will be invited to offer an oral report relaying the students' sources of satisfaction and/or concerns with the course at that point in time, and to discuss these with Committee members.

The Humanities Division hosts a Graduate Joint Consultative Forum to discuss issues of common interest to students across the Humanities as well as to seek student views on a range of topics relevant to them. Meetings are normally held once per term. Membership will be established at the start of the academic year.

6.2 Division and University Representation

Student representatives sitting on the Divisional Board are selected through a process organised by the Oxford University Student Union (Oxford SU). Details can be found on the Oxford SU website, <https://www.oxfordsu.org/> along with information about student representation at the University level.

6.3 Opportunities to provide evaluation and feedback

At the end of the course, the convenors convene an open discussion meeting with the cohort and also send out a course evaluation questionnaire.

Students on full-time and part-time matriculated courses are surveyed once per year by the university on all aspects of their course (learning, living, pastoral support, college) through University sponsored surveys. Previous results can be viewed by students, staff and the general public at <https://www.ox.ac.uk/students/life/student-engagement?wssl=1>

Feedback gathered from both of these is taken to the Steering Committee meeting in Michaelmas Term of the following year for analysis and any appropriate action in response.

7. Student Life and Support

7.1 Who to Contact for Help

Email addresses and phone numbers for your key course contacts are listed in section 1.5.

The Course Convenors are available to help with any aspect of your academic studies. Prof Reynolds will have individual meetings with you twice during Michaelmas Term (usually in 3rd week and 6th week) to discuss how you are settling into the course, and your ideas for your dissertation, and once during each of Hilary and Trinity Terms (usually in 4th week) to discuss your progress. In addition, you can email him at any time to set up further meetings if you have any questions or concerns.

Any one of the convenors may be consulted about any aspect of the course. However, Prof Reynolds has particular responsibility for the elements of the course that relate to literature in English; Prof Morgan for those that relate to Modern Languages; and Prof Jacobs and Prof Omri for those that relate to Asian and Middle Eastern Studies.

The Academic Mentor, is also available to help with your integration into the research community of OCCT and the wider university, your professional development, and with day-to-day matters such as the management of your workload. They will hold meetings to discuss study skills during the Induction week and again later in Michaelmas Term. You can email to arrange further consultations whenever you feel they would be helpful.

Every college has its own system of support for students, please refer to your College handbook or website for more information on who to contact and what support is available through your college.

Details of the wide range of sources of support available more widely in the University are available from the Oxford Students website (www.ox.ac.uk/students/welfare), including in relation to mental and physical health and disability.

7.2 Complaints and Appeals

Complaints and academic appeals within the Humanities Division

The University, the Humanities Division and the Steering Committee for the MSt Comparative Literature and Critical Translation all hope that provision made for students at all stages of their course of study will make the need for complaints (about that provision) or appeals (against the outcomes of any form of assessment) infrequent.

Where such a need arises, an informal discussion with the person immediately responsible for the issue that you wish to complain about (and who may not be one of the individuals identified below) is often the simplest way to achieve a satisfactory resolution.

Many sources of advice are available from colleges, Division and bodies like the Counselling Service or the Oxford SU Student Advice Service, which have extensive experience in advising students. You may wish to take advice from one of those sources before pursuing your complaint.

General areas of concern about provision affecting students as a whole should be raised through Joint Consultative Committees or via student representation on the faculty/department's committees.

Complaints

If your concern or complaint relates to teaching or other provision made by the Steering Committee for MSt Comparative Literature and Critical Translation then you should raise it with the Course Convenor and Co-convenors. They will attempt to resolve your concern/complaint informally.

If you are dissatisfied with the outcome, then you may take your concern further by making a formal complaint to the Proctors under the University Student Complaints Procedure (<https://www.ox.ac.uk/students/academic/complaints>)

If your concern or complaint relates to provision made by your college, you should raise it either with your tutor or with one of the college officers, Senior Tutor, Tutor for Graduates (as appropriate). Your college will also be able to explain how to take your complaint further if you are dissatisfied with the outcome of its consideration.

Academic appeals

An academic appeal is an appeal against the decision of an academic body (e.g. boards of examiners, transfer and confirmation decisions etc.), on grounds such as procedural error or evidence of bias. There is no right of appeal against academic judgement.

If you have any concerns about your assessment process or outcome it is advisable to discuss these first informally with your subject or college tutor, Senior Tutor, course director, supervisor or college or administrator as appropriate. They will be able to explain the assessment process that was undertaken and may be able to address your concerns. Queries must not be raised directly with the examiners.

If you still have concerns you can make a formal appeal to the Proctors who will consider appeals under the University Academic Appeals Procedure (<https://www.ox.ac.uk/students/academic/complaints>).

7.3 Student Societies

There are over 200 clubs and societies covering a wide variety of interests available for you to join or attend, including clubs and societies for music, sports, dancing, literature, politics, performing arts, media, faiths, national and cultural groups, volunteering and many more. Many of these societies are represented at the OUSU Freshers' Fair, which is held in 0th week of Michaelmas Term at Oxford University Exam Schools. For lists of clubs and societies and for more information visit: <http://www.ox.ac.uk/students/life/clubs>.

7.4 Policies and Regulations

The University has a wide range of policies and regulations that apply to students. These are easily accessible through the A-Z of University regulations, codes of conduct and policies available on the Oxford Students website www.ox.ac.uk/students/academic/regulations/a-z

Please note the Policy on recording lectures here:

academic.admin.ox.ac.uk/policies/recording-lectures-other-teaching-sessions

8. Facilities

8.1 Social Spaces and Facilities

The University and individual colleges have numerous social facilities and students are encouraged to consult their College handbook and websites such as <http://www.ox.ac.uk/students> for further details.

8.2 Workspace

You should consult individual faculty libraries and your College for details of dedicated graduate workspaces that might be available. Many graduate students tend to work in the study areas provided by University, faculties and college libraries for use by all students and researchers. There is some, but limited, graduate study space on the ground floor of the Humanities building in the Radcliffe Observatory Quarter. Please contact the course administrator if you wish to use this.

You are also able to use the Interdisciplinary Room in St Anne's College for study sessions or screenings, the course administrator will provide details and a calendar for booking this.

8.3 Libraries and Museums

Oxford is richly provided with libraries and museums. For more information please consult: <http://www.ox.ac.uk/research/libraries>

8.4 IT and Email

All users of the University's computer network should be aware of the University's rules relating to computer use, which can be found on the website at <http://www.it.ox.ac.uk/rules>.

Once you have received your University Card and activated your Oxford SSO account, you will be able to find out your email address from IT Service's registration website: https://register.it.ox.ac.uk/self/user\_info?display=mailin. Access to email is available through Nexus webmail (<https://owa.nexus.ox.ac.uk/>), using a desktop client such as Outlook, Thunderbird or Mac Mail, or using a mobile device such as an iPhone/iPad, Android phone/tablet or Blackberry. For client configuration information see the web pages at <http://www.it.ox.ac.uk/welcome/nexus-email>. The email system is controlled by Oxford University's IT Services and problems should be referred to them.

You are encouraged to use your University email address as your main email address and should check your University account regularly. This will be one of the main ways in which supervisors, administrative staff and other members of the University contact you. It is not practicable to keep track of private email addresses for each individual student.

The Course Administrator maintains an email list for circulating important information and other announcements to students.

The IT Services Help Centre at 13 Banbury Road provides a single location and point of contact for user support services. Information can be found on the IT Services website: <http://help.it.ox.ac.uk/helpcentre/index>.

8.5 Canvas Virtual Learning Environment

Oxford's virtual learning environment is called Canvas; the graduate studies administrator will provide access to this site close to the start of term. All material relating to the organisation of the course can be found here, including this handbook, timetables, guidelines for the submission of written work, examination regulations, and links to the participating Faculties.

8.6 Registration and Student Self-Service

All new students are sent a college fresher's pack containing details of how to activate their Oxford Single Sign-on account. The Oxford Single Sign-on is used to access Student Self Service to register online, as well as to access other central IT services such as free University email, Canvas and the Graduate Supervision System.

In order to complete your registration as an Oxford University student, navigate to <http://www.ox.ac.uk/students/selfservice> and log on using your Single Sign-on username and password. New students must complete their registration by the end of the first week of term in order to confirm their status as members of the University. Ideally students should complete registration before they arrive. Continuing students must register at the anniversary of the term in which they first started their programme of study.

Once students have completed their University registration, an enrolment certificate is available from Student Self Service to download and print. This certificate may be used to obtain council tax exemption. In addition to enabling students to register online, Student Self Service provides web access to important course and other information needed by students throughout their academic career. Students can amend their address and contact details via Student Self Service, and they can use the Service to access detailed exam results, see their full academic record, and print transcripts.

Appendix A – The Core Course: Reading and Preparation

The tutors are the course convenors: Matthew Reynolds (MR), Adriana X. Jacobs (AXJ), Mohamed-Salah Omri (MSO) and Ben Morgan (BM).

There follows a summary of the course, together with reading lists for each week, and instructions about how to prepare for the seminars. ‘Focus Texts’ will be central to each week’s lecture and you should make sure to study them so as to be able to engage with the arguments presented. The ‘Optional Further Reading’ is – as the title suggests – optional: this section of the list contains texts that may help you develop your ideas, so browse them according to your interests. All this material is also available in Oxford Reading Lists Online \(ORLO\) (<https://oxford.rl.talis.com/index.html>), under the title CLCT_MSt Comparative Literature_Core Course. Information about using this resource is here: <https://libguides.bodleian.ox.ac.uk/home/basics>. A list of further general reading and reference texts can be found in Appendix A below.

Please give particular attention to the instructions for the seminars as they vary from week to week.

Michaelmas Term

1. Histories of Comparison – MR

The lecture will explore some of the histories that it is possible to construct for comparative literature, touching on the relation between classics and vernacular languages (eg Dante), ideas about national literatures and relations between them (eg de Staël), and anti-colonial resistance and creolisation (eg Glissant). It will probe the functioning of comparison as a literary heuristic (with help from Auerbach), explore the overlaps between the kinds of comparative literary work that might be called criticism, translation, and original writing, and consider how the way we construct comparative literary history affects what we think comparative literary practice should be.

The seminar will provide you with a forum in which to open new angles on these ideas, and connect them to other material.

Preparation for the Seminar

All participants in the seminar should familiarise themselves with the focus texts so as to be able to engage with and develop the arguments presented in the lecture; you may also like to browse in the optional further reading if you have time. As preparation for the seminar, please either (a) choose one text from the further reading and identify one interesting point in it that can help us extend our understanding of issues raised in the lecture, or (b) find one relevant text not mentioned in this reading list and consider how it relates to our topic. Please then go to the ‘Collaborations’ page in our Canvas site and find the collaboration entitled ‘Histories of Comparison’. Insert a very brief account (no more than 50 words) of your interesting point or relevant text. Please complete this task by the end of day before our seminar: we will use this collaboration to help structure our seminar discussion.

If you are giving a presentation this week, you do not need to complete the small task prescribed above. Instead, please prepare a 7-10-minute talk which takes one of the following forms:

Either: a). Read further into one or more of the texts discussed in the lecture and describe how doing so enables you to engage with the arguments made.

Or: b). Discuss how one of the texts in the 'Further Reading' relates to the arguments made in the lecture.

Or: c). Present a text not listed here and explore its relevance to our topic.

Focus Texts

- Dante Alighieri, De Vulgari Eloquentia (c. 1302-5), Book I, sections i, vii, viii, ix, x, xvi. English translation by Steven Botterill (Cambridge University Press, 1996) freely available at <https://www.danteonline.it/english/opere.asp?idope=3&idlang=UK>. (Original Latin text ed. Pio Rajna [Societa Dantesca Italiana, 1960] is at the same location.)
- Dante Alighieri, Commedia (c. 1308-20), Inferno, cantos 1, 2 and 4. English translations by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow (1867) and Allen Mandelbaum (1984), along with Dante's Italian are freely available at <https://digitaldante.columbia.edu/dante/divine-comedy/>. You might also like to look at other translations, into English (eg. Lawrence Binyon, tr., Dante's Inferno [London: Macmillan, 1933] and Charles S. Singleton, tr., The Divine Comedy, 3 vols in 6 [Princeton, N. J.: Princeton University Press, 1971-5]) or into other languages you know.
- Édouard Glissant, Caribbean Discourse: Selected Essays, tr. Michael J. Dash (Charlottesville: University Press of Virginia, 1989), the essays entitled 'Natural Poetics, Forced Poetics' and 'Cross-cultural Poetics'. Online via SOLO in Hathi Trust. (French text, Le discours antillais [Paris: Seuil, c. 1981] online via SOLO in Hathi Trust).
- Madame de Stael, De l'Allemagne, anonymous 1814 translation revised by O. W. Wight as Germany, 2 vols, (Boston: Houghton Mifflin, 1859). Part 2 Chapter 1: 'Why are the French unjust to German literature?' (pp. 145-49) and Chapter 2: 'Of the judgment formed by the English on the subject of German Literature' (pp. 150-3). Online via SOLO in Hathi Trust. (French text, De l'Allemagne [Paris: H. Nicolle, 1810] online via SOLO in Gallica).
- Erich Auerbach, Mimesis: The Representation of Reality in Western Literature, tr. Willard R. Trask (Princeton, New Jersey: Princeton University Press, 2013), chapter 1: 'Odysseus' Scar'. Online via SOLO. (German text, Mimesis : Dargestellte Wirklichkeit in der abendländischen Literatur [Tübingen : Narr Francke Attempto, 2015]. Online via SOLO).
- Rosinka Chaudhuri, The Literary Thing: History, Poetry and the Making of a Modern Cultural Sphere (New Delhi: Oxford University Press, 2013; also Bern: Peter Lang, 2014), pp. xv – xviii.

Optional Further Reading

- David Damrosch, Natalie Melas and Mbongiseni Buthelezi (eds), The Princeton Sourcebook in Comparative Literature: From the European Enlightenment to the Global Present (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, 2009), especially Part 1.
- Joep Leerssen, 'Comparing What, Precisely? H. M. Posnett and the Conceptual History of 'Comparative Literature'', Comparative Critical Studies, 12.2 (June, 2015) special issue: 'Comparative Criticism: Histories and Methods', eds. Ben Morgan, Mohamed-Salah Omri and Matthew Reynolds, 197-212. Online via SOLO.
- Pascale Casanova, The World Republic of Letters, tr. by M.B. DeBevoise (Cambridge Mass., Harvard University Press, 2004), chapters 2 'The Invention of Literature' and 3 'World Literary Space'. (French text: La République mondiale des lettres [Paris: Seuil, 1999]).
- Eric Hayot, 'Vanishing Horizons: Problems in the Comparison of China and the West', in A Companion to Comparative Literature, eds Ali Behdad and Dominic Thomas (Chichester: Blackwell, 2011), pp. 88-107. Online via SOLO.
- Sharon Marcus, 'The Theater of Comparative Literature', in A Companion to Comparative Literature, eds Ali Behdad and Dominic Thomas (Chichester: Blackwell, 2011), pp. 136-54. Online via SOLO.
- Emily Apter, The Translation Zone: A New Comparative Literature (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, 2005), chapter 3 'Global Translatio: The "Invention" of Comparative Literature, Istanbul, 1933'.

2. Theories of Comparison: 'If theory was the answer, what was the question?': BM

The lecture will focus in particular on Comparative Literature at Yale across two generations. René Wellek and Erich Auerbach taught at Yale during the period when their work was shaping the modern discipline of Comparative Literature. Meanwhile, the critics working at Yale united in the path-breaking collection Deconstruction and Criticism (1979) — Bloom, de Man, Derrida, Hartman, Hillis Miller — came to embody an approach to literary reading, styled 'Theory', that was to shape academic approaches to literature for the next 30 years. Rita Felski's The Limits of Critique (2015) sought to identify the critical habits which underpinned the approach of the Yale School and its heirs, opening up space for historical analyses of the path that led from Auerbach to de Man and Derrida and beyond.

The seminar will explore the institutional contexts of Comparative Literature, starting with Goethe's reading of and translations from the French journal Le Globe in the later 1820s.

Preparation for the Seminar

All participants should read the focus texts. If you are giving a presentation, you should prepare a 7-10 minute talk offering an analysis of one of the groups of focus texts: (a), (b), (c) or (d). The further reading gives you material with which to contextualize the focus texts.

Focus texts

- a) Goethe's scattered comments on world literature as collected in:
  - H. J. Schulz/P. H. Rhein, eds. Comparative Literature: The Early Years (Chapel Hill, NC: University of N Carolina P, 1973), pp. 3-11.
  - David Damrosch, et al., eds., The Princeton Sourcebook in Comparative Literature (Princeton NJ: Princeton up, 2009), pp. 17-25.
- b) 1st generation Yale critics:
  - Erich Auerbach, 'The Philology of World Literature' (1952), in Time, History, and Literature: Selected Essays of Erich Auerbach (Princeton, N. J: Princeton UP, 2014), pp. 253-65. [See also the useful introduction by James I Porter]
  - René Wellek, 'The Crisis of Comparative Literature' (1959), in René Wellek, Concepts of Criticism, ed. Stephen G Nichols, Jr. (New Haven: Yale UP, 1963), pp. 282-95.
  - [Auerbach's 'Philology...' and Wellek's 'Crisis...' are both also anthologized in The Princeton Sourcebook in Comparative Literature.]
- c) The Next Generation
  - Harold Bloom et al., Deconstruction and Criticism (London: Routledge and Kegan Paul, 1979). [There is a Continuum 2004 paperback reprint. See especially the preface pp. vi-viii, and the essay by de Man, pp. 32-61.]
- d) Historicizing Theory
  - Rita Felski, The Limits of Critique (Chicago: Chicago UP, 2015), esp. pp. 1-51, pp. 151-93.

Optional Further Reading

- a) Goethe
  - Peter Goßens, Weltliteratur: Modelle transnationaler Literaturwahrnehmung im 19. Jahrhundert (Suttgart: Metzler, 2011), pp. 92-116.
  - Heinz Hamm, Goethe und die französische Zeitschrift Le Globe: Eine Lektüre im Zeichen der Weltliteratur (Weimar: Böhlhass, 1998).
- b) 1st generation Yale critics
  - For a historicization and critique of Auerbach, see Emily Apter's chapters on Auerbach in The Translation Zone (Princeton, N. J.: Princeton UP, 2006), pp. 41-64, and Against World Literature (London: Verso, 2013), pp. 193-210.
  - Edward Said, The World, the Text and the Critic (Cambridge, Mass: Harvard UP, 1983).
- c) The Next Generation
  - Marc Redfield, Theory at Yale: The Strange Case of Deconstruction in America (New York: Fordham UP, 2016).
- d) Historicizing Theory

- Felski published useful edited collections just before and just after The Limits of Critique:
- Rita Felski and Susan Stanford Friedman, eds., Comparison: Theories, Approaches, Uses (Baltimore: Johns Hopkins UP, 2013).
- Elizabeth S. Anker and Rita Felski, eds., Critique and Postcritique (Durham, NC: Duke UP, 2017).
- Her latest book is: Hooked: Art and Attachment (Chicago: Chicago UP, 2020).

3. Worlds of comparison - AXJ

This lecture will examine various ‘world’ literary models from Goethe to Nirvana Tanoukhi, addressing the currency of ‘world literature’ in comparative literary studies, as well as the limits of comparison between literary worlds. Challenging the Western European legacy of weltliteratur, recent scholarship (Cheah, Zaritt) contests the translatability of the ‘world’ in world literature, advancing alternative formulations that acknowledge the particularities of language, place, and history. Using Clarice Lispector’s short story ‘The Smallest Woman in the World’ as a case study, this lecture will consider the role of literature in both reimagining and reinforcing our understanding of world literature.

Preparation for the Seminar

All participants in the seminar should read the focus texts and be prepared to discuss the politics of “world literature” and the potential and limits of world literary models in comparative literary study.

If you are giving a presentation this week, please prepare a 7 to 10-minute talk that considers how the conceptions of ‘world literature’ explored in the readings and in the lecture intersect with your own research and academic interests.

Focus Texts

- Clarice Lispector, ‘The Smallest Woman in the World,’ in The Complete Stories, trans. Katrina Dodson (NY: New Directions, 2015), pp. 165-72.
- Pheng Cheah, What Is a World? On Postcolonial Literature as World Literature (Durham: Duke University Press, 2016), Introduction, pp. 1-19.
- Nirvana Tanoukhi, ‘The Scale of World Literature,’ New Literary History 39, no. 3 (2009): 599–617.
- Xiaofan Amy Li, ‘When Do Different Literatures Become Comparable? The Vague Borders of Comparability and Incomparability,’ in Minding Borders: Resilient Divisions in Literature, the Body and the Academy, eds. Nicola Gardini et al. (Oxford: Legenda, 2017), pp. 201-217.
- Hayot, Eric, ‘On Literary Worlds’, Modern Language Quarterly (2007), 72, no. 2, pp. 130- 161.

Optional Further Reading

- Ignacio Infante, After Translation: The Transfer and Circulation of Modern Poetics Across the Atlantic. Fordham University, 2013.
- Emily Apter, Against World Literature: On the Politics of Untranslatability (NY: Verso, 2013).
- Saul Zaritt, 'The World Awaits Your Yiddish Word': Jacob Glatstein and the Problem of World Literature'. Studies in American Jewish Literature, vol. 34 no. 2, 2015, pp. 175-203.
- Francesca Orsini and Laetitia Zecchini, Introduction, The Locations of (World) Literature: Perspectives from Africa and South Asia, Journal of World Literature (2019) 1-2, pp. 1–12.
- Warwick Research Collective, Combined and Uneven Development: Towards a New Theory of World-Literature (Liverpool: Liverpool UP, 2015), pp. 1-48.

4. Figures - BM

The lecture will explore two classic studies in comparative literature that focus on the changing history of particular literary figures: George Steiner's study of Antigone and Terence Cave's of Mignon. Terence Cave's study includes literary re-workings of Goethe's character by Walter Scott, George Eliot and Angela Carter among others, but also explores painting and music, and kitsch and popular culture, raising questions about how we find meaningful groupings across the full breadth of cultural activity. Similarly, Steiner's study raises questions about the fluid boundary between the literary and the philosophical. Around 1800, in Germany the line between the literary and the philosophical was open to negotiation, in part through the engagement of thinkers and writers, most famously Hegel, with Sophocles' Antigone. Philosophers such as Alasdair MacIntyre in After Virtue (1981) and Judith Butler in Antigone's Claim (2000), have continued to return to Sophocles' text. Do literary figures assist a particular sort of thinking across different languages and in different cultures? The attention to figures allows a consideration of popular culture, and makes visible the conceptual work done by cultural artefacts. But does the approach nevertheless attribute too much value to a narrow collection of figures from the Western tradition?

Preparation for the Seminar

Please look for other examples of figures that might lend themselves to such a study. The four presenters will pair up and present two such examples (i.e. one per pair). The presentation should work with short extracts from primary texts to explore the possibilities and limitations of this form of comparison.

Examples of figures might include: The adulteress (Emma Bovary, Effi Briest, Anna Karenina); the automaton (from Hoffmann's Sandman to Blade Runner and McEwan's Machines like Me), Byron, Cassandra (re-written by Christa Wolf), Don Quixote (Tom Jones, the Female Quixote, Wilhelm Meister), Dracula (including SpongeBob's take on Nosferatu?), the entrapped woman (from Richardson's Pamela to The Handmaid's Tale), the flâneur, Faust

(Dr Faustus, Faust, Manfred, Victor Frankenstein, Adrian Leverkühn), Frankenstein's monster, Hamlet, the Hotel, Odysseus (Homer to Joyce, Walcott and Atwood), Ophelia, Prometheus (Goethe, Shelley, Byron), the Sanatorium (from Mann's Magic Mountain and Schnitzler's Fräulein Else to Hurakami's Norwegian Wood).

Focus Texts

- Terence Cave, Mignon's Afterlives: Crossing Cultures from Goethe to the Twenty-First Century (Oxford: OUP, 2011), pp. 1-41, pp. 234-62.
- George Steiner, Antigones: The Antigone Myth in Western Literature, Art and Thought (Oxford: OUP, 1984), pp. 1-106.

Optional Further Reading

To better understand the arguments, you could (re-)read the primary texts. For the Sophocles play: the Loeb Classical Library edition (with other plays by Sophocles) gives you a parallel text and reliable translation. Alternatively: Seamus Heaney, The Burial at Thebes (London: Faber, 2004). For Goethe: Wilhelm Meister's Apprenticeship, trans. Eric A. Blackall (Princeton, NJ: Princeton UP, 1989). For a German text: the Reclam edition with accompanying Erläuterungen und Dokumente including the correspondence between Schiller and Goethe about the novel.

The lecture will also discuss the re-working of both Goethe and Hegel in Angela Carter's Nights at the Circus (1984).

Here are some further examples of this sort of figure-oriented study (if you are interested in developing this sort of approach and/or reflecting on its methodological assumptions):

- Piero Boitani, The Shadow of Ulysses: Figures of a Myth, trans. Anita Weston (Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1994).
- Terence Cave, Recognitions: A Study in Poetics (Oxford: Clarendon, 1987).
- Sandra Gilbert and Susan Gubar, The Madwoman in the Attic: The Woman Writer and the 19th-Century Literary Imagination (New Haven: Yale UP, 1979).
- Tony Tanner, Adultery and the Novel: Contract and Transgression (Baltimore: Johns Hopkins UP, 1979).

5. The Work of Translation – AXJ

Walter Benjamin's 1923 essay 'Die Aufgabe des Übersetzers' (The Task of the Translator) has become a—if not the—cornerstone of contemporary Translation Studies curricula, but often neglected in discussions of this work is that it initially served as his introduction to his German translations of Charles Baudelaire's Tableaux parisiens. In his famed essay, Benjamin may not address the translations themselves, the strategies and choices that shaped them, but he does propose a way of thinking about the generative relationship between translation and original that continues to influence translation theory and criticism today. In this week's lecture and seminar, we will consider how translators write about and theorize translation. Taking into consideration the poetics, politics and praxis of translation that they advance in their introductions, prefaces, afterwords, and increasingly academic articles and books, we will explore how translators are increasingly encouraged to make the work of translation visible and the questions of privilege and status that such visibility raises.

Preparation for the seminar

If you are giving a presentation this week, you will need to prepare a 7 to 10-minute talk where you expand on the issues raised in the lecture and discuss how you make (or plan to make) translation visible in your own work. You are welcome to bring a short translation of your own and reflect on your translation praxis.

Focus Texts

- Kate Briggs: This Little Art (London: Fitzcarraldo Editions, 2017) [Chps. “Maker of Wholes” and “Lady Translators”]
- Eléna Rivera, “Translation: A Movement,” in Kitchen Table Translation, ed. Madhu H. Kaza (Pittsburgh: Blue Sketch Press, 2017), pp. 99-102.
- Walter Benjamin, ‘The Translator’s Task’, trans. by Stephen Rendall, TTR, 10.2 (1997), <http://id.erudit.org/iderudit/037302ar>. Students are welcome to seek out other translations into English or other languages, as well as Benjamin’s original.
- Emily Apter, ‘Taskography: Translation as Genre of Literary Labor’, PMLA 122, no. 5 (2007): 1403-415. <http://www.jstor.org/stable/25501793>.
- Lawrence Venuti, “The Translator's Invisibility,” Criticism 28, no. 2 (Spring, 1986) pp. 179-212.

Optional Further Reading

- Mona Kareem, “Against Translation, Against Visibility,” lecture, BCLT Literary Translation Summer School (18-22 July 2022): <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=yoZ4z976Jeg>
- Adriana X. Jacobs, ‘Note on Translation’ and ‘Introduction’, in Strange Cocktail: Translation and the Making of Modern Hebrew Poetry (Ann Arbor: University of Michigan, 2018)

- Jen Calleja and Sophie Collins, "She knows too much: 'Bridge Translations,' 'Literal Translations,' and Long-Term Harm," Asymptote: <https://www.asymptotejournal.com/special-feature/jen-calleja-sophie-collins-she-knows-too-much/>

6. Genres and Forms – BM

Drawing on classic studies by Lukács, Bakhtin and Watt, as well as more recent accounts of the novel and its history by Pavel and Moretti, Cohen and Kukkonen, this lecture will explore how the concept of the novel has functioned as a way of grouping texts across literatures, as well as of defining the function(s) of literature in different contexts. The more recent studies, like those of Thomas Pavel, emphasize the plural, pre-modern inheritance of the novel. Moretti and Kukkonen seek critically to loosen any necessary tie between novel and realism. Kukkonen's argument sets out how hard it is not to use realism as an implicit standard when approaching works written with different literary expectations. In contrast, Margaret Cohen, analysing James Fenimore Cooper's genre-founding nautical novel The Pilot, suggests it is the grounding in a recognizable and translatable physical milieu that gives the nautical novel its success in the nineteenth century: a certain kind of object-focused realism travels well. What do these differing accounts of the novel tell us about the varying ways literature has functioned in different contexts? What implications does this have for the process of comparison?

Preparation for the Seminar

Please consider whether/how approaches to literature change if lyric, epic, drama and film are considered alongside the novel. What generic tools are appropriate in an era dominated by the TV box set and the computer game? Two presenters will each pick a specific novel with which to probe and problematize existing accounts of the genre. The other two presenters will each pick a text of a different genre (poem, play, non-novelistic narrative) to explore what models of genre would be helpful in approaching this text/film.

Focus texts

- Margaret Cohen, 'Traveling Genres,' New Literary History, Vol. 34, No. 3 (Summer, 2003): 481-499
- Karin Kukkonen, 4E Cognition and Eighteenth-Century Fiction (Oxford: OUP, 2019), pp. 1-24, pp. 197-221.
- Franco Moretti, Distant Reading (London: Verso, 2013), pp. 1-62, pp. 159-78. [A collection of essays showing the development of Moretti's thought towards 'distant reading'.]
- Thomas G. Pavel, The Lives of the Novel (Princeton, NJ: Princeton UP, 2013), pp. 1-20, pp. 265-99. [Pavel's own revised translation of La pensée du roman 2003.]

Optional Further Reading

- Mikhail Bakhtin, The Dialogic Imagination, ed. Michael Holquist (Austin: U of Texas P, 1981). [Esp. 'Epic and Novel' pp. 3-40]
- Jonathan Culler, Theory of Lyric (Cambridge, MA: Harvard UP, 2015).
- John Frow, Genre, 2nd ed. (London: Routledge, 2015).
- Hans-Thies Lehmann, Postdramatic Theatre (Abingdon: Routledge, 2006). [German: Postdramatisches Theater, Verlag der Autoren, 1999]
- Georg Lukács, The Theory of the Novel, trans. Anna Bostock (London: Merlin Press, 1971). (German: Theorie des Romans, Luchterhand ed. 1968)
- Franco Moretti, ed. The Novel, 2 vols. (Princeton, NJ: Princeton UP, 2006).
- Peter Szondi, Theory of Modern Drama (Cambridge: Polity, 1987). [German: Theorie des modernen Dramas, Suhrkamp ed. 1999]
- Ian Watt, The Rise of the Novel: Studies in Defoe, Richardson and Fielding (London: Chatto and Windus, 1957).

Hilary Term

1. Translation Studies and Comparative Literatures – MR

Translation was discounted by the dominant, mid-twentieth century North American and European ideas of comparative literature since they focused on texts in what were taken to be their original, national contexts. More recently, many comparative scholars have recognized that literature is inherently translingual, and therefore translational, and have become more interested in contexts other than nations (eg regions, cities, ethnicities, sexualities, the environment, 'the world') and in kinds of language that do not fit the standard, national model. What becomes of comparative literature in this more fluid, translational environment? Isn't translation in itself an intricate practice of comparison? The lecture will explore these developments and questions, focusing on literary texts that are also translations, or that explore translation, and on the role played by translation in constructing standard languages and national literatures; it will also touch on the place of machine translation and digital media in current literary and linguistic practice.

Preparation for the Seminar

Please look for a text or circumstance where translation and ideas of comparative literature seem to be in tension. Examples might be the use or avoidance of translation in a scholarly text; a literary text which itself embodies translational practices; discussions of language in the context of machine translation. Please then go to the 'Collaborations' page in our Canvas site and find the collaboration entitled 'Translation Studies and Comparative Literatures'. Paste in your example and write no more than 50 words of your own to elucidate what is interesting about it. If you are giving a presentation please be ready to spend 7-10 minutes outlining your example for the group.

Focus Texts

- John Dryden, 'Preface' to his Ovid's Epistles, Translated by Several Hands (London: Jacob Tonson, 1680). Online via SOLO in Early English Books Online (EEBO). See also the headnote and notes in John Dryden, The Poems, vol 1, ed. Paul Hammond (Harlow: Longman, 1995), pp. 376-91.
- Simon Gikandi, 'Contested Grammars: Comparative Literature, Translation, and the Challenge of Locality', in A Companion to Comparative Literature, eds Ali Behdad and Dominic Thomas (Chichester: Blackwell, 2011), pp. 254-272. Online via SOLO.
- Naoki Sakai, 'Translation', Theory, Culture & Society 23. 2-3 (2006), 71-86, DOI: 10.1177/0263276406063778. Online via SOLO.
- Annmarie Drury (tr.), Stray Truths: Selected Poems of Euphrase Kezilahabi (East Lansing, Michigan: Michigan State University Press, 2015): 'Translator's Introduction' and the poem-translations 'Fishing at Lake Victoria', 'The Nile River', 'Knife in Hand', 'Evening Meal', 'Flood'. Online via SOLO.
- Caroline Bergvall, Drift, <https://carolinebergvall.com/work/drift-performance/>. Watch the video of the performance and explore the records of the other manifestations of the work as drawing, installation and book. If you have time, track down the book in a library and consider its relation to the other manifestations.

- Clive Scott, The Work of Literary Translation (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2018): Chapter 1: 'Understanding Translation as an Eco-Poetics'. Online via SOLO.

Optional Further Reading

- Lydia H. Liu, Translingual Practice: Literature, National Culture and Translated Modernity, China, 1900-1937 (Stanford, Calif.: Stanford University Press, 1995), Ch. 1 'The Problem of Language in Cross-Cultural Studies'.
- David Damrosch, 'Translation and National Literature', in A Companion to Translation Studies, eds Sandra Bermann and Catherine Porter (Chichester: Wiley, 2014), pp. 349-60.
- Robert J. C. Young, 'That Which Is Casually Called a Language', PMLA 131.5 (2016), 1207-21.
- Antoine Berman, The Experience of the Foreign: Culture and Translation in Romantic Germany, tr. by S. Heyvaert (Albany: State University of New York Press), 1992, Chs 2 'Herder: Fidelity and Expansion', 3 'Bildung and the Demand of Translation' and 4 'Goethe: Translation and World Literature'. (French text: L'épreuve de l'étranger : culture et traduction dans l'Allemagne romantique : Herder, Goethe, Schlegel, Novalis, Humboldt, Schleiermacher, Hölderlin (Paris: Gallimard, 1984.)
- William J. Spurlin, 'Contested Borders: Cultural Translation and Queer Politics in Contemporary Francophone Writing from the Maghreb', Research in African Literatures, 47. 2, special issue on Queer Valences in African Literatures and Film (2016), pp. 104-120.
- Caroline Bergvall, 'Infra-materiality and Opaque Drifting', in Minding Borders: Resilient Divisions in Literature, the Body and the Academy, eds Nicola Gardini, Adriana X. Jacobs, Ben Morgan, Mohamed-Salah Omri and Matthew Reynolds (Cambridge: Legenda, 2017). Online via SOLO.
- Matthew Reynolds, The Poetry of Translation: From Chaucer & Petrarch to Homer & Logue (Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2011), Chs 6 'Metaphors for Translation', 7 'The Roots of Translatorly Metaphors', 9 'Interpretation and 'Opening': Dryden, Chapman, and Early Translations from the Bible' and 11 'Dryden, Behn, and what is "secretly in the poet"'. Online via SOLO.
- Matthew Reynolds, Translation: A Very Short Introduction (Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2016), Ch. 7 'Translational Literature'.

2. Translation and Transmediality – MR

Despite Roman Jakobson's distinction between 'interlingual' and 'intersemiotic' translation, the relationship between translation with words and with other means of signification is in fact intricate and blurry. The lecture will explore this border country by focusing on the long translational history of Dante's Commedia, taking in illustration, film and video gaming. (As you prepare for the lecture, do pay attention to the instructions that accompany several of the focus text entries.) The lecture will conclude with some wider reflections on the relationship between legibility and visuality in translational and transmedial literary writing.

Preparation for the Seminar

Select one interesting example of the interaction between translation and transmediality. You might choose a page or a still from one of the focus texts, an image, page or phrase from the works by Cayley, Rauschenberg, Carson or Liszt in the further reading, or any instance from any relevant text that you have come across (this could be anything from a manuscript to a tweet). Please paste your example into the 'Translation and Transmediality' collaboration in our Canvas site and write a comment of no more than 50 words to indicate what is interesting about it. If you are giving a 7-10 minute presentation you can either (a) outline and discuss an interesting example of translation and transmediality of the sort just mentioned or (b) summarise and critique an argument about the relationship between language and another mode of meaning-making.

Focus texts

- Dante Alighieri, Dante, translated into English verse by I.C. Wright, with engravings after Flaxman, 4th edn (London: 1857). Online via SOLO. Use the List of Plates at the start of the book and consider the role of the engravings in this act of translation. Now compare:
- John Flaxman, Select Compositions from Dante's Divine Drama (London: 1882). Online via SOLO. What is different about the work done by the engravings in this other context?
- Dante Alighieri, The Vision of Hell, translated by H. F. Cary, and illustrated with the seventy-five designs of Gustave Doré (London: Cassell & co., 1892). Online via SOLO. Use the 'List of Illustrations' and choose ten images to compare with Flaxman's.
- Dante's Inferno, directed by Francesco Bertolini, Giuseppe de Liguoro e Adolfo Padovan (Milan: Milano Films, 1911).
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=iS4We4MDheg&t=227s&has\_verified=1 ('Dante's Inferno (1911) – World's Oldest Surviving Feature-Length Film'). Watch at least the first half hour of this astonishing film.
- Go Down, Death, dir. Spencer Williams (Harlemwood Studios, 1944).
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=KSoUctLslis&t=2895s> Watch at least the last 15 minutes of this film (from 38' onwards)
- Romeo Castellucci and Societas Raffaello Sanzio, Inferno, Avignon Festival, 2008. Get a sense of this performance from the programme material at <https://festival-avignon.com/en/edition-2008/programme/inferno-24609> and recorded extracts at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=LOv3QsyJG2I>

- Dante's Inferno (Visceral Games / Electronic Arts, 2010). Form an awareness of this video game: read the Wikipedia entry - https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Dante%27s\_Inferno\_\(video\_game\)); watch the trailer (Electronic Arts, 2010): https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=UUOZRRU\_Dyg ; and, if you wish, browse the various Dante's Inferno 'Game Movies' available on YouTube. NB this is a certificate 18 video game which includes nudity and physical violence.

Optional Further Reading, Looking, Watching and Listening

- John Cayley, with Giles Perring, translation (2004); re-engineered for the web (2019): https://programmatology.shadoof.net/ritajs/translation@babel\_bodleian/
Instructions, commentary and context are at:
<https://programmatology.shadoof.net/?translation>
- Robert Rauschenberg, Dante Drawings (1958-60): <https://www.rauschenbergfoundation.org/art/series/dante-drawing>
- Anne Carson, Nox (New York: New Directions, 2010).
- Franz Liszt, A Symphony to Dante's Divine Comedy, S.109, usually known as 'Dante Symphony' (1856) – you might listen to any of the recordings available on streaming services such as Spotify.
- Carol O'Sullivan, Translating Popular Film, Ch. 3 'Before and Beyond Subtitles' (Basingstoke: Palgrave Macmillan, 2011).
- James Elkins, On Pictures and the Words that Fail Them (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1988), Ch. 1 'Marks, Traces, Traits, Contours, Orli and Splendores'.
- Monica Boria, Ángeles Carreres, Maria Noriega-Sánchez and Marcus Tomalin (eds), Translation and Multimodality: Beyond Words (Routledge, 2019), Ch. 1, Gunther Kress, 'Transposing meaning: Translation in a multimodal semiotic landscape' and Ch. 5, Matthew Reynolds 'Translating "I": Dante, literariness and the inherent multimodality of language'.
- Manuela Perteghella and Riccarda Vidal, Translation Games: <http://translationgames.net/>
- Alexandra Marinescu, 'Liszt – Portrait of a Musician. Dante Symphony', Studia Universitatis Babeş-Bolyai - Musica, 61.2 (2016), pp.211-234. Online via SOLO.
- Liedeke Plate, 'How to Do Things with Literature in the Digital Age: Anne Carson's Nox, Multimodality, and the Ethics of Bookishness,' Contemporary Women's Writing, 9. 1 (March 2015), pp. 93–111. Online via SOLO.
- Matthew Reynolds, Likenesses: Translation, Illustration, Interpretation (Oxford: Legenda, 2013), 'Introduction: Translations, Illustrations, Interpretations' and Ch. 5 'Poussin and The Sight of Death'.

3. Translation and Circulation – MR

Texts move, not only across languages but also from place to place. A book can travel long distances without being translated; equally, it can be translated and move no distance at all. Not only the source text but many other travelling texts may enter into any act of translation, and what happens in that act varies with location and genre. The lecture will explore some instances of the relationship between translation and circulation, asking where meaning is made, and what ideas about place can help us understand its re-making.

Preparation for the Seminar

Please use library catalogues and maps to trace some of the travels of a text that interests you. Write no more than 100 words in our 'Translation and Circulation' collaboration to outline what you have found. If you are giving a 7-10 minute presentation, please prepare to describe and explain one such journey for the group to discuss.

Focus Texts

- Franco Moretti, Atlas of the European Novel, 1800-1900 (London: Verso, 1998) Ch. 3 'Narrative Markets, ca. 1850'.
- Alexa Huang, Chinese Shakespeares: Two Centuries of Cultural Exchange (New York: Columbia University Press, 2009), Ch 1 'Owning Chinese Shakespeares'.
- Paulo Lemos Horta, Marvellous Thieves: Secret Authors of the Arabian Nights, (Cambridge, Mass.: Harvard University Press, 2017), 'Introduction' & Ch. 1 'The Storyteller and the Sultan of France'.
- Gisèle Sapiro, 'How do Literary works Cross Borders (Or Not)? A Sociological Approach to World Literature', Journal of World Literature 1.1 (2016), pp. 81-96. Online via SOLO.
- Matthew Reynolds et al., Prismatic Jane Eyre: An Experiment in the Study of Translations. www.prismaticjaneeyre.org. Explore the interactive maps of the global translation and circulation of Charlotte Brontë's novel.
- Francesca Orsini, 'The Multilingual Local in World Literature', Comparative Literature 67.4 (American Comparative Literature Association / University of Oregon 2015), 345-74. Pre-publication Accepted Version online at <https://core.ac.uk/download/pdf/42550970.pdf>.

Optional Further Reading

- A. E. B. Coldiron, Printers Without Borders: Translation and Textuality in the Renaissance (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2014), Ch 1 "'Englishing Texts": Patterns of Early Modern Translation and Transmission'.
- Paul Prescott, 'Shakespeare and the Dream of Olympism', in Paul Prescott and Erin Sullivan (eds), Shakespeare on the Global Stage: Performance and Festivity in the Olympic Year (London: Bloomsbury Arden, 2015), pp. 1-38.

- Gesine Müller, 'Re-mapping World Literature from Macondo', in Jorge J. Locane, Benjamin Loy and Gesine Müller (eds), Re-mapping World Literature: writing, book markets and epistemologies between Latin America and the Global South = Escrituras, mercados y epistemologías entre América Latina y el Sur Global (Berlin: De Gruyter, 2018), pp. 157-73. Online via SOLO.
- Dominique Kalifa and Marie-Ève Thérénty, 'Les Mystères urbains au XIXe siècle: Circulations, transferts, appropriations', <https://www.medias19.org/publications/les-mysteres-urbains-au-xixe-siecle-circulations-transferts-appropriations/introduction>. Use your browser's machine translation capability to read this essay as you wish/need.
- Michael Cronin, Translation in the Digital Age (Abingdon: Routledge, 2013). Ch. 2 'Plain Speaking'.
- Karen Emmerich, Translation and the Making of Originals (London: Bloomsbury Academic, 2017), 'Introduction: Difference at the "Origin"; Instability at the "Source": Translation as Translingual Editing'.

4. Translingual and Multilingual Texts - MSO

Multilingual texts challenge the limits of world and comparative literature as essentially monolingual practices. When writers compose multilingual texts, do they have in mind a reader equipped with all of these languages? Or do they anticipate that their works will remain, to varying degrees, illegible? Julien speaks of a distinction between introvert and extrovert texts. Some texts employ multilingual strategies to unsettle the monolingual authority of both original writing and translation. You are invited to explore the relation between multilingualism and translingualism in comparative literary criticism. We will consider the questions of being in a multilingual world and expressing it as well as the strategies authors employ to unsettle linguistic and cultural borders as they work across and within languages.

Preparation for the Seminar

All participants in the seminar should reflect on these questions in light of the Focus texts:

Do multilingual texts require multilingual critical approaches?

Is multilingual literature necessarily against world literature? Or the opposite?

Think about implied readers and translatability in multilingual literature.

If you are giving a presentation this week, you will need to prepare a 7-10 minute talk that addresses the question of language in literary production and circulation. Refer to your own multilingual practices in light of relevant ideas from the assigned reading.

Focus Texts

- Francesca Orsini, "The Multilingual (local) in world literature", Comparative Literature (2015) 67 (4): 345–374

- Abdelfattah Kilito, Thou shalt not speak my language, Trans. Wail Hassan (Syracuse UP, 2017)
- Ngugi, Wa Tiong, Decolonising the Mind: The Politics of Language in African Literature (Studies in African Literature), (James Curry, 2009).
- Karen Emmerich, Translation and the Making of Originals (London: Bloomsbury Academic, 2017), 'Introduction: Difference at the "Origin"; Instability at the "Source": Translation as Translingual Editing'. DOI: 10.5040/9781501329944.0004
- Stephen Kellman, The Translingual Imagination (Lincoln: University of Nebraska Press, 2000), ch. 1, "Translingualism and the Literary Imagination".

Optional Further Reading

- Eileen Julien, "The Extroverted African Novel", The Novel, ed. Franco Moretti, vol. 1. (Princeton: Princeton University Press, 2006), pp. 667-700.
- Jacques Derrida, Monolingualism of the Other: or, The Prosthesis of Origin, trans. Patrick Mensah (Stanford: Stanford University Press, 1998).
- Brian Lennon, In Babel's Shadow: Multilingual Literatures, Monolingual States (Minneapolis: University of Minnesota Press, 2010).
- Yasmin Yildiz, Beyond the Mother Tongue: The Postmonolingual Condition (Fordham University, 2012).
- Adriana X. Jacobs, 'Extreme Translation', in Prismatic Translation, ed. Matthew Reynolds (Oxford: Legenda, 2019)

5. Untranslatables and Universals: A Misunderstanding about Understanding? – BM

The lecture will focus on two contrasting models of language: on the one hand, the model which underpins the work of Emily Apter and Barbara Cassin, who draw attention to the specificity which practices of intercultural exchange can erase; on the other hand, the model underpinning Terence Cave's cognitively-inflected account of the situated and embodied processes which inform the reading experience across cultures. Does the idea of a literary 'affordance,' which Cave shares with other post-critical critics like Rita Felski, offer a way beyond the apparently irreconcilable models of literary communication? To begin answering this question, a culturally situated account of (mis) understanding will be developed, drawing on Edward Said's Orientalism (1978), and the work of cognitive philosophers Hugo Mercier and Dan Sperber, and historian of science Bruno Latour.

Preparation for the Seminar

Please browse and think about some entries in the Dictionary of Untranslatables. If you are giving a presentation, you will stress-test one entry by putting it alongside a literary example and its translation into one or more languages. Pick a short literary text, or individual passages from a longer text.

Focus Texts

- Emily Apter, Against World Literature: On the Politics of Untranslatability (London: Verso, 2013), pp. 1-44, pp. 175-90.
- Barbara Cassin et al., eds. Dictionary of Untranslatables: A Philosophical Lexicon (Princeton, NJ: Princeton UP, 2014). Pick individual entries relevant to your own interests, but read in particular the entry on “to translate,” pp. 1139-55.
- Terence Cave, Thinking with Literature (Oxford: OUP, 2016).

Optional Further Reading

- Terence Cave and Deirdre Wilson, eds., Reading Beyond the Code: Literature and Relevance Theory (Oxford: OUP, 2018).
- Cecilia Heyes, Cognitive Gadgets (Cambridge, MA: Harvard UP, 2018).
- Hugo Mercier and Dan Sperber, The Enigma of Reason (London: Penguin, 2017).
- Dan Sperber and Deirdre Wilson, Relevance: Communication and Cognition, 2nd ed. (Oxford: Blackwell, 1995).
- Michael Tomasello, Becoming Human: A Theory of Ontogeny (Cambridge, MA: Harvard UP, 2019).
- Raymond Williams, The Long Revolution (London: Chatto & Windus, 1961).
- Lisa Zunshine, ed. Introduction to Cognitive Cultural Studies (Baltimore: Johns Hopkins UP, 2010).

5. Migration, Travel and Encounter: Minding Borders - MSO

Metaphors and language of movement pervade the discourse of translation: translation as passage, conduit, channel, bridge, transit, crossing over. Translation as migration, travel and encounter. But how do we reconcile the positive, even optimistic, associations that such language and metaphors summon with our current moment, when the daily news, on a global scale, carries reports of the migrant and refugee crises? How do we examine the relation between translation and movement in ways that acknowledge the severity and precarity of real-life migrants and refugees, that take into account the varying conditions of migrancy? To what extent is migrant literature and refugee literature ‘world literature’? The lecture focuses on border crossing and border control in the movement of ideas, styles and people.

Preparation for the Seminar

You will be asked to identify and reflect upon a relevant instances of migration, travel or encounter. It may be described in literary, historical or journalistic writing, or other media; or it may be from your own experience. It may be from human to non-human or the other way around, as suggested in essays in the chapters of the book Minding Borders (2017). If you are giving a presentation this week, prepare a 7-10 minutes talk reflecting on your own migratory practice (linguistic, spacial, intellectual, gendered...) in light of the focus texts and any relevant further reading. Discuss your case in terms of comparability and translatability.

Focus Texts

- Nicola Gardini, et al., eds. Minding Borders: Resilient Divisions in Literature, the Body and the Academy (Oxford: Legenda, 2017), 'Introduction': pp. 1-16.
- Édouard Glissant, Poetics of Relation, trans. Betsy Wing (Ann Arbor: University of Michigan Press, 1997).
- Borges, Jorge Luis, "Averroes", Labyrinths (New York: New Direction Books, 1962), 148-155.
- Kilito, Abdelfattah, "The Portrait of the Intellectual as a Porter"
<https://journeyofideasacross.hkw.de/between-places-al-muthanna-and-undermining-dichotomies/abdelfattah-kilito.html>.

Optional Further Reading

- And Emily Apter, Against World Literature (London: Verso, 2013), Ch. 5, pp: 247-264.
- Rebecca Gould, "The Poetics from Athens to al-Andalus: Ibn Rushd's grounds for comparison", Modern Philology, August 2014, pp. 1-24.
https://www.researchgate.net/profile/Rebecca\_Gould6/publication/275298158\_The\_Poetics\_from\_Athens\_to\_al-Andalus\_Ibn\_Rushd%27s\_Grounds\_for\_Comparison/links/56889c2708ae051f9af5c827/The-Poetics-from-Athens-to-al-Andalus-Ibn-Rushds-Grounds-for-Comparison.pdf
- Cecilia Vicuña, 'Language is a Migrant,' trans. Daniel Borzutzky, Poetry Foundation, April 18, 2016: <https://www.poetryfoundation.org/harriet/2016/04/language-is-migrant>
- Loredana Polezzi, 'Translation and migration,' Translation Studies, 5:3 (2012): 345-356, DOI: 10.1080/14781700.2012.701943

Saloul, I. "Exilic Narrativity" in Durrant, S. and Lord, C.M. (Eds) Essays on Migratory Aesthetics (Leiden: Brill, 2007), pp. 111-128

Appendix B - General Background Reading and Reference Texts

The following publications offer broad overviews of our field(s), and include useful general bibliographies which will point you towards a wide range of relevant material:

David Damrosch, Natalie Melas and Mbongiseni Buthelezi (eds), The Princeton Sourcebook in Comparative Literature: From the European Enlightenment to the Global Present (Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, 2009).

Sandra Bermann and Catherine Porter (eds), A Companion to Translation Studies (Chichester: Wiley-Blackwell, 2014).

Ali Behdad and Dominic Thomas (eds), A Companion to Comparative Literature (Chichester : Wiley-Blackwell, 2011).

Steven Totosy de Zepetnek and Tutun Mukherjee (eds), Companion to Comparative Literature, World Literatures and Comparative Cultural Studies (New Delhi : Foundation Books, 2014). doi:10.1017/UPO9789382993803.

Lawrence Venuti (ed), The Translation Studies Reader (London: Routledge-Taylor & Francis, 2000).

Matthew Reynolds, Translation: A Very Short Introduction (Oxford: OUP, 2016).

Ben Hutchinson, Comparative Literature: A Very Short Introduction (Oxford: OUP, 2018).

The following journals published in English harvest much work in our field(s). All of them are either open access or accessible through the Bodleian Library's online catalogue, SOLO.

Comparative Critical Studies (Edinburgh University Press)

Translation Studies (Routledge)

Translation and Literature (Edinburgh University Press)

Target (John Benjamins)

Comparative Literature (American Comparative Literature Association)

PMLA (Modern Language Association of America)

Recherche Littéraire / Literary Research (ICLA) – open access at <https://www.aicl-icla.org/literary-research/>

Comparative Literature Studies (University of Maryland)

Babel (International Federation of Translators)

The Translator (St Jerome)

Canadian Review of Comparative Literature / Revue Canadienne de littérature comparée (Canadian Comparative Literature Association)

Journal of Comparative Literature and Aesthetics (Vishvanatha Kaviraja Institute)

Please search for and browse relevant journals in other languages that you can read. You might also like to become aware of the websites of relevant professional organisations and join their mailing lists. For instance: British Comparative Literature Association – <https://bcla.org>; International Comparative Literature Association – <https://www.aicla.org/> ; American Comparative Literature Association – <https://www.acla.org/> . Again, please seek out relevant organisations in other locations and languages.

Appendix C - Examination Conventions

These are the definitive examination conventions for the MSt in Comparative Literature and Critical Translation for the academic year 2022-23

1. Introduction

This document sets out the examination conventions applying to the MSt in Comparative Literature and Critical Translation (CLCT) for the academic year 2022-23. The supervisory body for this course is the Steering Committee for the MSt in Comparative Literature and Critical Translation.

Examination conventions are the formal record of the specific assessment standards for the course to which they apply. They set out how examined work will be marked and how the resulting marks will be used to arrive at a final result and classification of an award.

2. Rubrics for individual papers

The papers to be examined fall into three categories:

The Core Course: Comparative Criticism and Critical Translation – Practices and Theories

Two Option Courses

Dissertation

The Core Course

The core course will be assessed by submission of an essay, of up to 4,000 words, that answers one of a list of questions relating to topics covered in the course. The question paper will be released on Inspira at noon on Thursday of the sixth week of Hilary Term and a link will be emailed to candidates by the Course Administrator. The answer will be due in by noon on Thursday of the eighth week of Hilary Term and will need to be submitted electronically as an Inspira assignment: the Course Administrator will email candidates a link to enable them to do this. The word limit of 4,000 words includes footnotes/endnotes but excludes the bibliography and translations of quotations in languages other than English.

Two Option Courses

Each option course is both taught and examined within one of the faculties that participate in the MSt CLCT: Asian and Middle Eastern Studies, Medieval and Modern Languages, and English Language and Literature. The Examination Conventions that apply to each option are those of its host faculty. The same is true of arrangements for approval of titles (where required), presentation of work, word-length, and deadline. Candidates should ensure that they have familiarised themselves with the appropriate Conventions, which will be available from the graduate studies office of the host faculty.

Dissertation

Candidates must gain formal approval of the topic of their dissertation by providing an outline of the topic, in not more than 200 words, to the Chair of MSt CLCT Examiners, by Friday of the sixth week of Hilary Term. A link will be emailed by the Course Administrator for this purpose. Candidates are not obliged to provide a title, but may do so if they wish. Please note that candidates may not repeat material that they have already submitted as part of another assessed piece of work.

The dissertation must be between 10,000 and 12,000 words in length: this word limit includes footnotes/endnotes but excludes the bibliography and translations of quotations in languages other than English. It must be submitted electronically as an Inpera assignment, not later than noon on Monday of the eighth week of Trinity Term. A link will be emailed by the Course Administrator for this purpose.

3. Marking conventions

3.1 University scale for standardised expression of agreed final marks

Agreed final marks for individual papers will be expressed using the following scale:

70-100	Distinction
65-69	Merit
50-64	Pass
0-49	Fail

3.2 Qualitative criteria for different types of assessment

Take-home examination paper

Distinction quality work will demonstrate:

- Strong engagement with the question
- Originality and a wide knowledge of relevant material
- An elegant and incisive argument with a deep understanding of the issues involved
- Very clear and subtle expression and exposition
- Very well-focussed illustration
- Very good scholarly apparatus and presentation

Merit quality work will demonstrate:

- Fairly strong engagement with the question
- Some originality and good knowledge of relevant material
- A clear argument with a good understanding of the issues involved
- Very clear expression and exposition
- Well-focussed illustration

- Good scholarly apparatus and presentation

Pass quality work will demonstrate:

- Relevance to the question
- A good understanding of the issues and grasp of relevant literature
- A good structure and appropriate scope
- Clear expression and exposition
- Appropriate illustration
- Due attention being paid to scholarly apparatus and presentation

Failing work may:

- Not be relevant to the question
- Show an insufficient depth of knowledge and understanding of issues
- Lack argumentative coherence
- Display an inadequate use of illustration
- Show problems relating to scholarly presentation

Dissertation

Distinction quality work will demonstrate:

- The ability to pose and engage with sophisticated questions
- An elegant and incisive argument with a deep understanding of the issues involved
- Originality and a wide knowledge of relevant material
- Very clear and subtle expression and exposition
- Very well-focussed illustration
- Very good scholarly apparatus and presentation

Merit quality work will demonstrate:

- The ability to pose well-judged questions
- Some originality and good knowledge of relevant material
- A clear argument with a good understanding of the issues involved
- Very clear expression and exposition
- Well-focussed illustration
- Good scholarly apparatus and presentation

Pass quality work will demonstrate:

- A good understanding of the issues and grasp of relevant literature
- A good structure and appropriate scope
- Clear expression and exposition
- Appropriate illustration
- Due attention being paid to scholarly apparatus and presentation

Failing work may:

- Show an insufficient depth of knowledge and understanding of issues
- Lack argumentative coherence

- Display an inadequate use of illustration
- Show problems relating to scholarly presentation

3.3 Verification and reconciliation of marks

Normally each submission will be marked by two markers. The marks will fall within the range of 0 to 100 inclusive. Examiners are encouraged to award high marks to good scripts, though marks above 85 will be reserved for scripts that are quite outstanding.

(ii) Each initial marker determines a mark for each submission independently of the other marker. The initial markers then confer and are encouraged to agree a mark. Where markers confer, this does not debar them from also re-reading where that may make it easier to reach an agreed mark.

(iii) In every case, the original marks from both markers are entered onto a marksheet available to all examiners, as well as the marks that result from conferring or re-reading.

(iv) If conferring or re-reading (which markers may choose to do more than once) does not reduce the gap between a pair of marks where a mark can be agreed between the markers, the submission is third read by an examiner, who may be an external examiner.

(v) Marks are accompanied by comments on the performance of each candidate. Comment sheets are provided by each assessor on each submission. Any comments are made available to external examiners.

(vi) The third reader of a submission (whether external or internal) may adjudicate between the two internal marks, and the third reader's mark will be the final mark.

(vii) The Board of Examiners may choose to ask the external examiner to act as an adjudicator, but this is not required by University regulations. The requirement is simply that the external examiner must be in a position to report on the soundness of the procedures used to reach a final agreed mark.

(viii) The expectation is that marks established as a result of third readings would not normally fall outside the range of the original marks. However, it is permissible for the third examiner to recommend to the Board of Examiners a final mark which falls outside the bounds of the two existing marks. Such a recommendation will only be approved by the Board if it can provide clear and defensible reasons for its decision.

(xiii) Numerical marking will be expressed in whole numbers for agreed final marks. These marks will be made available to students (as well as faculties and colleges), and will appear on transcripts generated from the Student System.

3.4 Scaling

Scaling is not used in the assessment of this course.

3.5 Short-weight convention

There are no formal penalties for work that falls short of the minimum word limit. However, work that is significantly under-length is likely to be inadequate in its coverage and content, and will be so marked. As a rough guideline, less than three-quarters of the maximum word limit is likely to be inadequate.

3.6 Penalties for late or non-submission of submitted work

The scale of penalties agreed by the Board of Examiners in relation to late submission of assessed items is set out below. Details of the circumstances in which such penalties might apply can be found in the Examination Regulations (Regulations for the Conduct of University Examinations, Part 14.)

Late submission	Penalty
After the deadline but submitted on the same day	-5 marks (-5 percentage points)
Each additional calendar day	-1 mark (- 1 percentage point)
Max. deducted marks up to 14 days late	-18 marks (- 18 percentage points)
More than 14 days late	Fail

Failure to submit a required element of assessment will result in the failure of the assessment. The mark for any resit of the assessment will be capped at a pass.

3.7 Penalties for over-length work and departure from approved titles or subject-matter in submitted work

The Board has agreed the following tariff of marks which will be deducted for over-length work:

Percentage by which the maximum word count is exceeded:	Penalty (up to a maximum of -10)
Up to 5% over word limit	-1 mark
Up to 10% over	-2
Up to 15% over	-3
Each further 1-5% over	-1 further mark

3.8 Penalties for poor academic practice in submitted work

In the case of poor academic practice, and determined by the extent of poor academic practice, the board shall deduct between 1% and 10% of the marks available for cases of poor referencing where material is widely available factual information or a technical description that could not be paraphrased easily; where passage(s) draw on a variety of sources, either verbatim or derivative, in patchwork fashion (and examiners consider that this represents poor academic practice rather than an attempt to deceive); where some attempt has been made to provide references, however incomplete (e.g. footnotes but no quotation marks, Harvard-style references at the end of a paragraph, inclusion in bibliography); or where passage(s) are 'grey literature' i.e. a web source with no clear owner.

If a student has previously had marks deducted for poor academic practice or has been referred to the Proctors for suspected plagiarism the case will be referred to the Proctors. Also, where the deduction of marks results in failure of the assessment and of the programme the case will be referred to the Proctors.

In addition, any more serious cases of poor academic practice than described above will be referred to the Proctors.

4. Progression rules and classification conventions

4.1 Qualitative descriptors of Distinction, Pass, Fail

The Humanities Division encourages examiners to mark up to 100.

The Board of Examiners has adopted the following criteria:

Over 85 : 'Highest Distinction'

Outstanding work of publishable quality demonstrating most of the following: exceptional originality, critical acumen, depth of understanding, subtle analysis, superb use of appropriate evidence and methodology; impeccable scholarly apparatus and presentation.

80-84 : 'Very High Distinction'

Excellent work with outstanding elements showing many of the following qualities: originality, wide and detailed knowledge, compelling analytical thought, excellent use of illustration to support argument, sophisticated and lucid argument; excellent scholarly apparatus and presentation.

75-79 : 'High Distinction'

Excellent work with a deep understanding of the issues involved, originality, wide knowledge of relevant material, elegant and incisive argument, clarity of expression and exposition, the ability to pose and engage with sophisticated questions; very good scholarly apparatus and presentation.

70-74 : 'Distinction'

Excellent work with a deep understanding of the issues involved, originality, wide knowledge of relevant material, elegant and incisive argument, clarity of expression and exposition; very good scholarly apparatus and presentation, but may exhibit uneven performance.

65-69 : 'Merit'

High quality work showing some originality, a good understanding of the issues and grasp of relevant literature; good structure and scope, lucid analysis supported by well-focussed illustration; good scholarly apparatus and presentation.

60-64 : 'High Pass'

Good work showing a fair grasp of issues and relevant literature; good scope, structure and illustration; clear expression and exposition; appropriate attention to scholarly apparatus and presentation.

50-59 : 'Pass'

Competent work presenting relevant material and analysis; appropriate scope, structure and illustration; fairly clear expression and exposition; adequate scholarly apparatus and presentation.

Below 49 : 'Fail'

Inadequate work which may be limited by insufficient depth of knowledge, understanding of issues or relevant literature; or by inadequate use of illustration, poor argument or organisation of material; or lack of clarity; or problems relating to scholarly presentation.

4.2 Final outcome rules

The pass mark on each paper is 50, and this mark must be achieved on each element to gain the MSt.

The Examining Board may award a Merit in cases where a candidate achieves a mark of 65 or above in the Dissertation and an overall average of between 65 and 69 inclusive across the four elements of the course.

The Examining Board may award a Distinction in cases where:

A candidate achieves a mark of 70 or above in the Dissertation and an overall average of 70 across the four elements of the course; or

A candidate achieves a mark of 68 or above in the Dissertation and an overall average of 72 across the four elements of the course.

Any re-submitted element that passes will be awarded a mark of 50. Candidates who have initially failed any element of the examination will not be eligible for the award of a Distinction.

4.3 Progression rules

Not applicable to this course.

4.4 Use of vivas

Vivas are not used in relation to this course.

5. Resits

Should a candidate fail any element of the examination, that element may be re-submitted once, and once only. Candidates may resubmit that element by noon on the last Monday of the following Long Vacation; the highest mark that may be awarded for resubmitted work is 50 (pass).

6. Consideration of mitigating circumstances

A candidate's final outcome will first be considered using the classification rules/final outcome rules as described above in section 4. The exam board will then consider any further information they have on individual circumstances. Candidates may make a submission under Part 13 of the Regulations for Conduct of University Examinations, that unforeseen circumstances may have had an impact on their performance in an examination. A subset of the board (the 'Mitigating Circumstances Panel') will meet to discuss the individual applications and band the seriousness of each application on a scale of 1-3 with 1 indicating minor impact, 2 indicating moderate impact, and 3 indicating very serious impact. The Panel will evaluate, on the basis of the information provided to it, the relevance of the circumstances to examinations and assessment, and the strength of the evidence provided in support. Examiners will also note whether all or a subset of papers were affected, being aware that it is possible for circumstances to have different levels of impact on different papers. The banding information will be used at the final board of examiners meeting to decide whether and how to adjust a candidate's results. Further information on the procedure is provided in the Policy and Guidance for examiners, Annex C and information for students is provided at www.ox.ac.uk/students/academic/exams/guidance.

7. Details of examiners and rules on communicating with examiners

External Examiner

Dr Xiaofan Amy Li

Internal Examiners

Dr Benjamin Morgan (Chair)

Professor Mohamed-Salah Omri

Professor Matthew Reynolds

Candidates should not under any circumstances make contact with individual internal or external examiners.

Appendix D - Plagiarism

Plagiarism in the research and writing of essays and dissertations

Definition

Plagiarism is the use of material appropriated from another source or sources, passing it off as one's own work. It may take the form of unacknowledged quotation or substantial paraphrase. Sources of material here include all printed and electronically available publications in English or other languages, or unpublished materials, including theses, written by others.

Plagiarism also includes the citation from secondary sources of primary materials which have not been consulted, and are not properly acknowledged (see examples below).

Why does plagiarism matter?

Plagiarism is a breach of academic integrity. It is a principle of intellectual honesty that all members of the academic community should acknowledge their debt to the originators of the ideas, words, and data which form the basis for their own work. Passing off another's work as your own is not only poor scholarship, but also means that you have failed to complete the learning process. Deliberate plagiarism is unethical and can have serious consequences for your future career; it also undermines the standards of your institution and of the degrees it issues.

What to avoid

The necessity to reference applies not only to text, but also to other media, such as computer code, illustrations, graphs etc. It applies equally to published text drawn from books and journals, and to unpublished text, whether from lecture handouts, theses or other students' essays. You must also attribute text or other resources downloaded from web sites.

There are various forms of plagiarism and it is worth clarifying the ways in which it is possible to plagiarise:

- Verbatim quotation without clear acknowledgement

Quotations must always be identified as such by the use of either quotation marks or indentation, with adequate citation. It must always be apparent to the reader which parts are your own independent work and where you have drawn on someone else's ideas and language.

- Paraphrasing

Paraphrasing the work of others by altering a few words and changing their order or by closely following the structure of their argument, is plagiarism because you are deriving your words and ideas from their work without giving due acknowledgement. Even if you include a reference to the original author in your own text you are still creating a misleading impression that the paraphrased wording is entirely your own. It is better to write a brief summary of the author's overall argument in your own words than to paraphrase particular sections of his or her writing. This will ensure you have a genuine grasp of the argument and will avoid the difficulty of paraphrasing without plagiarising. You must also properly attribute all material you derive from lectures.

- Cutting and pasting from the Internet

Information derived from the Internet must be adequately referenced and included in the bibliography. It is important to evaluate carefully all material found on the Internet, as it is less likely to have been through the same process of scholarly peer review as published sources.

- Collusion

This can involve unauthorised collaboration between students, failure to attribute assistance received, or failure to follow precisely regulations on group work projects. It is your responsibility to ensure that you are entirely clear about the extent of collaboration permitted, and which parts of the work must be your own.

- Inaccurate citation

It is important to cite correctly, according to the conventions of your discipline. Additionally, you should not include anything in a footnote or bibliography that you have not actually consulted. If you cannot gain access to a primary source you must make it clear in your citation that your knowledge of the work has been derived from a secondary text (e.g. Bradshaw, D. Title of book, discussed in Wilson, E., Title of book (London, 2004), p. 189).

- Failure to acknowledge

You must clearly acknowledge all assistance which has contributed to the production of your work, such as advice from fellow students, laboratory technicians, and other external sources. This need not apply to the assistance provided by your tutor or supervisor, nor to ordinary proofreading, but it is necessary to acknowledge other guidance which leads to substantive changes of content or approach.

- Professional agencies

You should neither make use of professional agencies in the production of your work nor submit material which has been written for you. It is vital to your intellectual training and development that you should undertake the research process unaided. Under Statute XI on University Discipline, all members of the University are prohibited from providing material that could be submitted in an examination by students at this University or elsewhere.

- Autoplagiarism

You must not submit work for assessment which you have already submitted (partially or in full) to fulfil the requirements of another degree course or examination, unless this is specifically provided for in the special regulations for your course.

- Relating principles of plagiarism to the research and writing of essays and the dissertation

Essays and dissertations will invariably involve the use and discussion of material written by others, with due acknowledgement and with references given. This is standard practice, and can clearly be distinguished from appropriating without acknowledgement, and presenting as your own material produced by others, which is what constitutes plagiarism. It is possible to proceed in two ways if you wish to present an idea or theory from one of your sources.

An argument, for example, from Raymond Gillespie's work on religion in Ireland in the early modern period might be presented by direct quotation as follows:

'The idea of providence [became] powerfully divisive in early modern Ireland since each confessional group was convinced that it had unique access to the power of God'.<sup>2</sup>

Or, you might paraphrase:

Providence caused conflict in early modern Ireland: each confession claimed particular Divine favour.<sup>3</sup>

If you adopt the latter course, be aware that you should be expressing ideas essentially in your own words and that any paraphrased material should be brief.

When you conduct research for your dissertation, you should always consult the primary materials, as far as possible, rather than depending on secondary sources. The latter will often point you in the direction of original sources, which you must then pursue and analyse independently.

There may, however, be some occasions on which it is impossible to gain direct access to the relevant primary source (if, for example, it is unprinted and located in a foreign or private archive, or has been translated from a language with which you are unfamiliar). In these circumstances, you may cite from the secondary source, with full acknowledgement. This should be in the following form, here in a Welsh-language example:

'In order to buy this [the Bible] and to be free of oppression, go, sell thy shirt, thou Welshman'.<sup>4</sup>

When choosing your dissertation subject it is important to check that you can gain access to most of the primary materials that you will need, in order to avoid the type of dependence discussed here.

Guidance for note-taking:

The best way to ensure that you do not engage in plagiarism of either of the kinds discussed above is to develop good note-taking practices from the beginning. When you take notes from secondary sources always register author, title, place and date of publication and page numbers. Above all, if you think you might wish to quote a sentence or phrase directly, put it in quotation marks from the outset: otherwise make sure the summary language is your own.

When you extract a primary source immediately note both its place or origin and situation within your secondary text. If you have any doubts about how to access the primary material, ask for advice at this early stage, not when you come to assemble your ideas prior to writing up the essay or dissertation.

Penalties:

The Proctors regard plagiarism as a serious form of cheating for which offenders can expect to receive severe penalties including the return of a mark of zero on the work submitted. Even the lightest penalties for plagiarism will almost certainly have the effect of pulling down the candidates' overall result. The Examiners will check theses for plagiarism, and will use internet forms of check if it is deemed necessary to do so.

---

<sup>2</sup> R. Gillespie, Devoted People: Belief and Religion in Early Modern Ireland (Manchester, 1997), p. 50

<sup>3</sup> R. Gillespie, Devoted People: Belief and Religion in Early Modern Ireland (Manchester, 1997), p. 50

<sup>4</sup> Thomas Jones, Hen Gwndidau Carolau a Chywyddau, cited and translated in G. Williams, Wales and the Reformation (Cardiff, 1997), p. 358.

Appendix E - Guidelines for the Presentation of Written Work

Your work should be lucid and presented in a scholarly manner. Display such evidence as is essential to substantiate your argument. Elaborate it in a manner which is clear, concise, consistent, accurate and complete.

Styling your work as you write:

There are several sets of conventions and published guides to explain them. None is obligatory, but some will be more appropriate (and generally used) in particular disciplines. The important point is that you should follow one system throughout all the pieces of work submitted.

The Harvard system largely avoids footnotes by citing references in the text, where they take the form of the author's surname followed by the date of publication and any page reference within brackets: e.g. (Johnston, 1989: 289). The works referred to are gathered at the end of the piece of work, arranged alphabetically by author, with full bibliographical details.

An alternative system (Chicago) confines references to footnotes, normally using the full author name, title and publication details in the first reference and an abbreviated form of author and title in subsequent references.

Whichever system you adopt, you should choose it early and learn its conventions so well that you automatically apply them consistently.

The relation of text, notes and appendices:

The ideal relationship is perhaps best expressed as one of scale. The text is self-evidently your major contribution. The word-limits placed on the essays and dissertation assume a scale appropriate to the topic, the time which you have to work on it, and the importance of writing clearly and succinctly. In writing and revising your work, strive always to make it simpler and shorter without prejudicing the substance of your discussion.

The main function of a footnote is to cite the authority for statements which you make in the text, so that your readers may verify them by reference to your sources. It is crucial that these references are accurate. Try to place footnote or endnote number references at the end of sentences or paragraphs.

Footnotes, placed at the bottom of the page on which the material to which they refer is contained, should be indented as paragraphs with the footnote number (raised as superscript) preceding the note itself, and the second (and subsequent) line(s) of the note returning to the left-hand margin. They should also be single-spaced. Most word-processing programmes use this as standard form. The same holds for endnotes.

Appendices offer a convenient way of keeping your text and footnotes clear. If you have hitherto unpublished evidence of primary importance, especially if it is unlikely to be readily accessible to your examiners, it may be helpful to append it. Every case must be argued in terms of the relevance and intrinsic value of the appended matter. If the Appendix takes you over the word limit, you must seek formal approval to exceed that word limit well before submission.

Textual apparatus: if you are presenting an edition of a literary work, the textual apparatus, in single spacing, must normally appear at the foot of the page of text to which it refers.

Quotation in foreign languages:

Quotations in foreign languages should be given in the text in the original language. Translations into English should be provided in footnotes, or in the body of your text if the translation forms part of the substance of your discussion. If reference is made to a substantive unpublished document in a language other than English, both the document in the original language and a translation should be printed in an Appendix.

Abbreviations:

These should be used as little as possible in the body of the text. List any which you do use (other than those in general use, such as: cf., ed., e.g., etc., f., ff., i.e., n., p., pp., viz.) at the beginning of the essay (after the table of contents in the case of the dissertation), and then apply them consistently. Adopt a consistent policy on whether or not you underline abbreviations of non-English origin.

Avoid loc. cit. and op. cit. altogether. Reference to a short title of the work is less confusing and more immediately informative. Use ibid. (or idem/eadem), if at all, only for immediately successive references.

Italic or Roman?

Be consistent in the forms which you italicise. Use italics for the titles of books, plays, operas, published collections; the names, full or abbreviated, of periodicals; foreign words or short phrases which have not become so common as to be regarded as English.

Use roman for the titles of articles either in periodicals or collections of essays; for poems (unless it is a long narrative poem the title of which should be italicised); and for any titled work which has not been formally published (such as a thesis or dissertation), and place the title within single inverted commas.

For such common abbreviations as cf., e.g., ibid., pp., q.v., etc., use roman type.

Capitals

Reserve these for institutions or corporate bodies; denominational or party terms (Anglican, Labour); and collective nouns such as Church and State. But the general rule is to be sparing in their use. The convention in English for capitalisation of titles is that the first, last and any significant words are capitalised. If citing titles in languages other than English, follow the rules of capitalisation accepted in that language.

Quotations:

In quotation, accuracy is of the essence. Be sure that punctuation follows the original. For quotations in English, follow the spelling (including capitalisation) of the original. Where there is more than one edition, the most authoritative must be cited, rather than a derivative one, unless you propose a strong reason to justify an alternative text.

Short quotations: if you incorporate a quotation of one or two lines into the structure of your own sentence, you should run it on in the text within single quotation marks.

Longer quotations: these, whether prose or verse or dramatic dialogue, should be broken off from the text, indented from the left-hand margin, and printed in single spacing. No quotation marks should be used.

Quotations within quotations: these normally reverse the conventions for quotation marks. If the primary quotation is placed within single quotation marks, the quotation within it is placed within double quotation marks.

Dates and Numbers

Give dates in the form 27 January 1990. Abbreviate months only in references, not in the text.

Give pages and years as spoken: 20-21, 25-6, 68-9, 100-114, 1711-79, 1770-1827, or from 1770 to 1827.

Use numerals for figures over 100, for ages (but sixtieth year), dates, years, lists and statistics, times with a.m. and p.m. (but ten o'clock). Otherwise use words and be consistent.

Write sixteenth century (sixteenth-century if used adjectivally, as in sixteenth-century architecture), not 16th century.

References

Illustrations, tables etc.: The sources of all photographs, tables, maps, graphs etc. which are not your own should be acknowledged on the same page as the item itself. An itemised list of illustrations, tables etc. should also be provided after the contents page at the beginning of a dissertation, and after the title page in the case of an essay.

Books: Precise references, e.g. in footnotes, should be brief but accurate. In Chicago style, give full details for the first reference, and a consistently abbreviated form thereafter. All such reduced or abbreviated titles should either be included in your list of abbreviated forms or should be readily interpretable from the bibliography. Follow the form:

Author's surname; comma; initials or first name (although in footnotes these should precede the surname – e.g. Henry James, W.W. Greg); comma; title (italicised); place of publication; colon; name of publisher; comma; date of publication (all this in parenthesis); comma; volume (in lower-case roman numerals); full stop; number of page or pages on which the reference occurs; full stop.

For example, an entry in the bibliography should be in the form:

Greg, W.W., The Calculus of Variants (Oxford, 1927).

Or:

Greg, W.W., The Calculus of Variants (Oxford: Oxford University Press, 1927).

But a reference in a footnote should be in one of the following forms:

(First time cited) Either:

See W.W. Greg, The Calculus of Variants (Oxford, 1927), pp. 43-4.

Or: See W.W. Greg, The Calculus of Variants (Oxford: Oxford University Press, 1927), pp. 43-4.

(Subsequent citations) Either:

See Greg, Calculus, pp. 43-4.

Or: See Greg (1927), pp. 43-4.

Journals: Follow the form:

Author's surname; comma; initials or first name; title of article (in single quotation marks); comma; title of journal (either full title or standard abbreviation, italicised); volume (in lower-case roman numerals); date (in parenthesis); comma; page number(s); full stop.

For example, an entry in the bibliography should be in this form:

Bennett, H.S., 'Fifteenth-Century Secular Prose', RES xxi (1945), 257-63.

But a reference in a footnote should be in the form:

(first citation):

H.S. Bennett, 'Fifteenth-Century Secular Prose', RES xxi (1945), 257-63.

(subsequent reference):

either: Bennett, 'Secular Prose', p. 258.

Or: Bennett (1945), p. 258.

Plays: In special cases you may wish to use through line numbering, but in most instances follow the form:

Title (italicised); comma; act (in upper-case roman numerals); full stop; scene (in lower-case roman numerals); full stop; line (arabic numerals); full stop.

E.g. The Winter's Tale, III.iii.3.

Other works: Many works, series, as well as books of the Bible, have been abbreviated to common forms which should be used. Serial titles distinct from those of works published in the series may often be abbreviated and left in roman. Follow these examples:

Bede, Historia ecclesiastica 2.3, ed. B. Colgrave and R.A.B. Mynors (Oxford, 1969), p. 143.

Bede, Historia ecclesiastica 2.3, p. 143 (for subsequent references)
Prov. 2:5; Thess. 4:11, 14. (Do not italicise books of the Bible.)

Manuscripts: Both in the text and in the notes the abbreviation MS (plural MSS) is used only when it precedes a shelfmark. Cite the shelfmark according to the practice of the given library followed by either

f. 259r, ff. 259r-260v or fol. 259r, fols. 259r-260v. The forms fo. and fos. (instead of f. or fol.) are also acceptable.

The first reference to a manuscript should give the place-name, the name of the library, and the shelf-mark. Subsequent references should be abbreviated.

e.g. Paris, Bibliothèque Nationale, MS lat. 4117, ff. 108r-145r. Vatican City, Biblioteca Apostolica Vaticana, MS Vat. Lat. 5055, f. 181r.

Bibliography:

A list of works consulted must be provided, usually at the end of the essay or dissertation.

The bibliography should be in alphabetical order by authors' surnames, or titles of anonymous works, or of works (especially of reference works) usually referred to by title, e.g. Middle English Dictionary, not under Kurath, H. and Kuhn, S., its editors.

It is sometimes helpful, and therefore preferable, to present the bibliography in sections: manuscripts, source material, and secondary writings. You might follow the pattern:

1. Primary

- A. Manuscripts
- B. Printed Works

2. Secondary

- A. Contemporary with the author(s) or work(s), the subject of your dissertation
- B. Later studies

References must be consistently presented, and consistently punctuated, with a full stop at the end of each item listed.

Either capitalise all significant words in the title, or capitalise the first word and only proper nouns in the rest of the title. In capitalising foreign titles follow the general rule for the given language. In Latin titles, capitalise only the first word, proper nouns and proper adjectives. In French titles, capitalise only the first word (or the second if the first is an article) and proper nouns.

Whereas in footnotes, and for series, publishing details may be placed within parentheses, for books in the bibliography the item stands alone and parenthetical forms are not normally used.

Give the author's surname first, then cite the author's first name or initials. Place the first line flush to the left-hand margin and all subsequent lines indented.

The publishing statement should normally include the place of publication; colon; publisher's name; comma; date of publication. When the imprint includes several places and multiple publishers simplify them to the first item in each case.

The conventional English form of the place-name should be given (e.g. Turin, not Torino), including the country or state if there is possible confusion (Cambridge, Mass., unless it is Cambridge in England).

For later editions and reprints, give the original date of publication only, followed by semicolon; repr. and the later publishing details: Wuthering Heights. 1847; repr. London: Penguin, 1989.

For monographs in series, omit the series editor's name and do not italicise the series title. Follow the form:

Borst, A., Die Katherer, Schriften der Monumenta Germaniae Historica 12. (Stuttgart, 1953), pp. 45-50.

For edited or translated works, note the distinction in the use of ed. in the following examples:

Charles d'Orléans, Choix de poésies, ed. John Fox. Exeter: Exeter University Press, 1973. [In this case the abbreviation means that the work is edited by Fox and does not change when there is more than one editor.]

Friedberg, E., ed., Corpus iuris canonici. 2 vols. Leipzig, 1879-81. [Here the abbreviation refers to the editor; the plural is eds.]

Bloch, Marc, Feudal Society, trans. L.A. Manyon. Chicago: Chicago University Press, 1961.